Ex-High School Grid Star Dies of Gun Wounds

GIRL FRIEND SAYS SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENT

Lone Witness Held By Police After Albert S. Banks, 20, Succumbs At Hospital.

Youth Shot 'Messing Round With Gun,' At His Rooming House, Police Told.

A former Mansfield high school football star, Albert S. Banks, 20, was dead of bullet wounds today as the result of a shooting in the bedroom of his rooming house at 35 Raymond avenue last night.

Lillie Mae Bruce, 19, of 149 Lily street, who said Banks shot himself accidentally while "messing around with a gun" was held by police pending further investigation. Both are colored

Albert Banks

Police Chief Meade K. Bates ordered Miss Bruce held incommunicado after he questioned her for three and a half hours.

Bates said he was not completely satisfied that the shooting was accidental although the girl steadfastly contended that Banks shot himself.

The widely-known athlete was fatally wounded at 8:30 p. m. yesterday as he lay on the bed in his room conversing with the girl who had come to visit him. Police said he had been ill and had not been out of the house all day.

According to the girl's story to police, she had gone upstairs while Mr. and Mrs. Emery Merritt, with whom the boy roomed, were in the downstairs living room. She said that Banks had taken the small automatic pistol from beneath his pillow to show her while she sat on the edge of the bed. When Banks attempted

James Roosevelt Defends Father In 'Dictator' Debate

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — James Roosevelt, son and secretary of the president, defended his father against "dictatorship" charges last night during a debate with Rep. Samuel B. Pettengill (D., Ind.) over the plan to reorganize the executive branch of the federal government.

"I know that some people are sincerely disturbed about this plan," Roosevelt told an audience of 2,000 in Town hall.

"They think it is another step toward one-man government. But the plan simply gives the president in reality what he now has in constitutional theory—the authority of a general manager of the executive branch."

Pettengill attacked the reorganization plan on the ground that it went too far and contained "dangerous features."

"The permanent powers which the plan would vest in the chief executive would be inherited by all his successors," he said. "Even if it be conceded that every one now in Washington is as wise as Solomon, we have to legislate with the thought that some day another Huey Long may occupy the White House, and would use the vast powers in this plan ruthlessly to crush political opposition and human liberty."

DOG KEEPS VIGIL AT GIRL'S GRAVE

Pet of Millersburg Child Stays Near Cemetery Plot.

MILLERSBURG—(U.P.)—Colonel, a collie dog, stands constantly at the grave of his 5-year-old mistress, Pauline Mary Straits, who died two weeks ago.

Colonel was the guardian and companion of Pauline, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Straits of Millersburg.

The dog was seen several days ago in the cemetery by Villars Horner, cemetery caretaker. Later, Pauline's father found the dog keeping vigil at the grave.

Groundwork For Parole Inquiry Laid

BULLETIN

Completing a tour of the reformatory at noon today, the grand jury recessed until Monday without hearing any witnesses.

The special Richland county parole grand jury came to the end of the first week of its investigation today, with the groundwork laid for further inquiry into the parole system as it exists in Ohio.

The jury spent the morning making a tour of the reformatory, where it has been in session since Monday. The inspection trip had been planned since Monday by Assistant Attorney General George Hurley, conducting the investigation, but hearing the testimony of witnesses has kept the panel busy.

The panel was taken on its tour of the institution by Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke and was to visit all of the buildings. The jury went "inside" about 10 a. m., and was not expected to return until noon.

Hears Inmates Again.

This afternoon further testimony of inmates was to be heard. Hurley said Naceb Simoff, Youngstown, and Clyde Harouff, Akron, both of whose parents are said to have communicated with Arch W. (Stub) Naylor, central figure in the parole investigation, were expected to be among those questioned. Harouff was returned here from the Grafton honor camp yesterday.

The afternoon session was expected to be brief. At its conclusion the jury will recess until Monday. There will be no session tomorrow.

Yesterday afternoon's session concerned itself chiefly with investigation of reformatory financial transactions, dating back to 1922, but Hurley announced that subpoenas had been issued for records concerning paroles for next week.

Subpoenas were issued for the records of an investigation conducted some years ago by Joseph N. Ackerman, then state senator and now a municipal judge in Cleveland. The subpoena was to be served on Dwight L. Matchette, clerk of the senate in Columbus, who has the records. Also subpoenaed were records of a welfare department investigation conducted in 1935, at the request of Governor Martin L. Davey, by Frazier Reams, one-time Lucas county prosecutor. Reams' inves-

DEATH AFLOAT

Canadian Tells Bizarre Story Of Jap Ship Plot.

SEATTLE—(AP)—A bizarre story of an oriental plot to blow up ships laden in American ports with scrap iron and war materials for Japan was checked by authorities today while steamships in Seattle harbor were warned to beware of a crude homemade floating bomb.

Police Capt. Marshall Scrafford said George Partridge, 22-year-old Canadian, reported "orientals" had employed him and Roiphe M. Forsyth, school teacher of Vancouver, B. C., to dynamite the ships.

Forsyth drowned in an attempt, Partridge said, to blow up the Japanese liner Hiye Maru, first objective of the plot.

Partridge, arrested as a suspected box car thief, unfolded the weird bombing story when Forsyth's body was found.

From Hot Mills To Timber Camp — It's Far Cry

More than 50 Mansfield men, accustomed to face the white heat of steel furnaces, the roar and steady din of the rolling mills, have taken to the open spaces to help solve their problem of unemployment while mill operations are curtailed. They've turned lumberjacks and have organized a timber camp on the Millsboro road, where they are cutting down trees from a 50-acre woods, and cutting the timber into fuel. It costs them nothing through the generosity of owners of the tract. The men estimate that each will have enough wood to last them during the balance of the winter as a result of the enterprise. In the photograph above, a small group of the steel workers are seen getting their rations from a "soup kitchen", open each day. At the right are two of them cutting down a tree that will later be sawed into pieces for furnaces and wood stoves.

SORORITY OPENS MEET TOMORROW

Delta Theta chapter of Delta Theta Tau, national philanthropic and social sorority, will be hostess over tomorrow and Sunday to more than 150 delegates and guests from four states, with headquarters at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

It will be the first sorority province convention ever held in Mansfield and elaborate plans have been made by the Mansfield members to make it an outstanding event. Both social and business sessions will have a place on the two-day program, which get under day with registration at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the hotel, and the first business session at 1 p. m.

Delegates will come from Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan, the four states in the province.

Reports will be given on national philanthropic projects that are now on the sorority's list of activities, and several new projects will be discussed.

A "vanity" dinner for all of the visitors will be given at the Leland ballroom Saturday night, with a dance to follow. A "progress" breakfast at 11 a. m. Sun-

3 Girls Sweep Scholastic Honors In January Class

Miss Jessie Bryner Leads Graduates In Grades; Miss Mary Gage and Miss June Mertz Next In Line.

Three girls in the January graduating class at Senior high school walked off with the lion's share of scholastic honors, it was announced at Class day exercises this afternoon in the high school auditorium.

First honors in scholastic achievement for the four-year course went to Miss Jessie Bryner, daughter of Mrs. Maude F. Bryner, 205 South Foster street.

Elected to Honor Society.

In addition to receiving highest honors, Miss Bryner was one of 12 graduates elected to the National Honor society, and was one of three students presented with the Student Representative council Latin medal for the highest average in Latin during her senior year. Membership in the honor society is based on scholarship, character, service and leadership.

Second honors went to Miss Mary Gage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Gage, 128 Western avenue, and Miss June Mertz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Paul F. Mertz, 75 Raleigh avenue, captured third.

Miss Gage and Miss Mertz both were among those named to the National Honor society, and Miss Gage was also one of the three senior students to receive the S. R. C. Latin award.

Honorable mention for scholastic achievement went to 19 members of the class. They are:

QUESTION 2 IN $20,000 THEFT

Police Jail Pair as Suspects In Bank Holdup.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—State police brought two young men arrested at Clarksburg, W. Va., to Charleston today for questioning about the $29,800 holdup of the First National bank of South Charleston.

Trooper W. E. Murphy identified the two as Loyal Baker 22, of Detroit, Mich., and Reginald Armond Furbee, 19, of Gassaway, W. Va., and Detroit and said they were arrested last night.

Captain Max Steagle of the state police said the pair corresponded to descriptions of two of the three robbers who held up the bank Wednesday.

JOBLESS TURN LUMBERJACKS, FILL FUEL BINS

Delano Lodge Organizes Crews On Wooded 50-Acre Tract Off Millsboro Road

By JOHN M. SCHROEDER

The thud of a hand axe biting deep into a log . . . the steady rhythm of a sharp-toothed, two-man cross cut saw cutting into a tree trunk . . . warning cries of "there she goes, watch out!" . . . and then the crash that signals another tree has fallen, its branches sprawled on a cushion of underbrush.

That tells the story of a group of 50 or more steel workers who have turned lumberjacks to replenish their winter's fuel supply and conserve on their cash while employment operations lag.

Wood Cutters Take Turns.

They're cutting about 18 cords of wood a day and hauling it to their homes. When each of them has enough to last for the balance of the winter, he quits his wood cutting so another jobless co-worker can fill up his fuel bins.

The wood cutters are at work on a 50-acre tract of woods on the Millsboro road just west of the Frank B Black estate. Except for their own effort, the wood costs them nothing. It is donated by Joe Seibert, Mansfield real estate dealer, and Gustavo Patterson, each of whom own a tract in the wooded area.

Trees which have grown too closely together, others that are nearly giving away because of decay and age are being cleared out of the tracts. Only the tall, stately ones will remain. The area already is taking on the appearance of a park.

75 At Work One Time.

As high as 75 men have been cutting the timber, and sawing it into chunks of furnace or heating stove size for the past few weeks. They have organized what might be termed, with some reservations, a lumber camp modeled somewhat after those common in the forests of northern United States and Canada.

Organized by the Delano lodge of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, the camp has a "soup kitchen" that provides real strength-giving food.

Sharply at noon each day, they gather around a huge campfire where kettles of soup, huge piles of sandwiches and buckets of hot

JOE WON'T SIGN

DiMaggio Sticks To $30,000 Salary Demand Of Yanks.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Joe DiMaggio, sensational New York Yankee outfielder, emerged from a conference with Owner Jacob Ruppert today on his 1938 salary with the announcement that no agreement had been reached.

DiMaggio told baseball writers he had declined to reduce his demand, believed to be $30,000. Ruppert said he had boosted the Yankees' original offer to $25,000 but that failed to satisfy Joe.

The club's original offer, it was believed, was $18,000, an increase of $3,000 over the salary DiMaggio was paid last year when he led both leagues in home runs, led the American league in runs scored and ranked second to Detroit's Hank Greenberg in runs batted in.

Bird of Death

Because Steve Good, itinerant circus showman from Carson, Tex., allegedly ill-treated a performing bird, a South American cocatrice, during a circus performance at Henderson, N. C., Good is dead and Clarence Fairbanks, of Baltimore, Md., faces murder charges. Police said Fairbanks confessed slaying Good with an axe during an argument over ill-treatment of the bird.

RICHLAND FAIR FIRST IN STATE

Annual County Expositon Set For July 27-29, Earliest In History This Year.

Set for the last week in July, the 1938 Richland county fair will be the first in Ohio this year and the earliest in the fair's history, B. H. Huston, Shelby, chairman of the racing committee and a director, announced today.

The fair, which was cut to three days this year in a move by the board of directors to put the exposition on a paying basis, will be held July 27, 28 and 29. Opening on Wednesday, it will continue through Friday night.

Huston's announcement of the early date followed a meeting of the officers of the Richand County Agricultural society, which sponsors the annual fair.

Officers voted to move the exposition at least a month from the September date at the annual directors' meeting Jan. 8, but deferred setting a definite date until after the state convention of fair managers at Columbus last week.

This year's fair, which will feature one of the best racing cards ever seen in northcentral Ohio, will have no competition from other sections of the state, Huston said. There will be no other fair or racing meet in Ohio that week, he added.

Huston was the first to start a move for the earlier date, arguing that a late July or early August date would eliminate the chance of cold weather reducing attendance and would help the speed committee to arrange a better racing program

The sponsoring agricultural society finished 1937 with a $6,500 deficit, which was increased by $2,000 as a result of small attendance at the 1937 exposition in September

Ashland Combats Smallpox As City Battles Diphtheria

While Mansfield public health officials today exerted every effort to check diphtheria in the city, health officers at Ashland are working night and day to keep under control a threatened epidemic of smallpox there.

Five new cases of diphtheria "carriers" have been isolated in Mansfield in the last 24 hours, and a number of throat cultures are being made today at General hospital under direction of Dr. Roy C. Rehder, public health commissioner.

Among the isolated persons are W D. Cameron Foley, assistant manager of the Mansfield-Leland hotel, and Harold W. York, laboratory attendant at General hospital. Others who have been isolated are Miss Elinor Mowers, a nurse, and Frank Sellers and James McCarrick, hospital workmen. All of their culture tests have been positive, and although they do not actually have the disease will remain in isolation to prevent their spreading the disease.

The smallpox situation in Ashland has assumed serious proportions with eight persons under quarantine in the city and two in the county. One recent death at Samaritan hospital is believed to have been due, in part at least, to the disease.

Dr R P Boignard, Ashland health commissioner, said today he believed the disease is now under control as no new cases have developed in the past three days. Several thousand persons in the

RANSOM MONEY FOUND

$30,000 Located In Minnesota After Slain Men Are Found In Brush-Hidden Cave.

ST. PAUL — (AP) — An amazing story of kidnapings, slayings and bank robberies attributed to Peter Anders, former lumberjack, was related today after recovery of the bodies of Charles S Ross, abducted Chicago manufacturer, and James Atwood Gray, from a cave deep in northern Wisconsin woods.

Whisking Anders back to St. Paul after a two-day foray into the frozen fastness of Minnesota and Wisconsin, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, said virtually all of the $50,000 ransom paid in vain for Ross' release had been recovered.

Admits Crime Series.

The 30-year-old onetime logger in the Pacific northwest detailed each of numerous crimes in a lengthy confession, said Hoover, adding that Anders had slain his accomplice, Gray, during an argument.

The FBI chief said Anders had confessed kidnaping John Borcia and his wife, Olivia, of Chicago, and robbing one Minnesota and three Wisconsin banks. The Borcias were released without payment of ransom.

When arrested Friday at Santa Anita racetrack near Los Angeles, Anders possessed about $14,000 of the ransom money, Hoover said. An additional $20,000 was found hidden in Minnesota. Anders said $3,000 to $6,000 of the balance was stolen from his car in New York City. The bodies of Ross and Gray, the latter nude, were found late yesterday in a brush concealed cave about 12 miles northwest of Spooner, Wis. Hoover said the killer slew Gray first and then shot the 72-year-old kidnap victim.

Detailing the search, Hoover said the trial led beyond St. Cloud, Minn., about 70 miles north of here. In a wooded region near Emily, Minn., Hoover said the prisoner led federal agents to a dugout where Ross was confined immediately after his kidnaping Sept. 25 and then to a brush heap where $30,000

NAMES 4 MORE

Hunter Completes Selections For City Posts.

Four more appointments to city commissions were made today by Mayor Claude M. Hunter, which completes his governing set-up for the year. Two of the appointees were Democrats and two Republicans.

William A. Springer, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Brass company, was named to the board of trustees of the city sinking fund, replacing F. C. Small, Democrat, whose term expired at the end of 1937. Springer is a Democrat.

Two members were appointed to the planning commission, one for a six year term and the other to fill an unexpired term. John Massa, jr., secretary of the Citizens Savings and Loan company, was appointed for six years, to succeed Lester Redding. Massa is also a Democrat.

Paul M. Eliot, active Republican and Farmers Savings and Trust company official, was also named to the planning commission, to replace George W. Stephens who recently resigned. The term has two years to run.

Paul Tappan, president of the Tappan Stove company, also a Republican, was named to serve a five-year term on the city recreation board, succeeding O. C. Stanley, whose term expired Jan. 1.

Peter Lorre at Madison.

Peter Loree, the Hungarian star, famous for his psychological characterizations, tops the cast in "Thank You Mr. Moto," with Thomas Beck, Pauline Frederick, Jayne Regan and Sidney Blackmer in the principal supporting roles. The film, based on a novel by J. P. Marquand, and playing at the Madison theater, is laid in Peiping, China, and on the desert wastes of Mongolia. The plot is woven around the friendship of Mr. Moto for an elderly dowager of Old China and her son, a Chinese prince. The dowager and her son are in possession of six of the seven scrolls that are the key to the fabulous hidden treasure of Genghis Khan. A pair of modern crooks gain possession of the seventh, and then set out to get the other one. Mr. Moto steps into the picture at this moment to take the situation in hand.

Adventures of Family.

Resort and family life, amusing adventures and adolescent romances are mingled in the plot of "You're Only Young Once," playing through Saturday at the Ohio theater. Lewis Stone, Cecilia Parker and Mickey Rooney are the main characters around which the story revolves. The narrative describes an American family group of five on their first vacation in 11 years. The complications which ensue when daughter and son become involved in romantic adventures disturbs the even tenor of family routine. Stone, as the father, comes to the rescue of the children who thinks he doesn't understand them. How he saves them and his fortune at the same time makes up an interesting picture.

"O'Shaughnessy's Boy."

Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper are co-starred in "O'Shaughnessy's Boy," playing at the Majestic theater. The film, based on circus life, is one of the features on the double bill through Saturday. Jack Randell, the singing cowboy, is featured in the second picture, "Danger Trail," with Lois Wilde, Hal Price and Charles King supporting him. The western film deals with the adventures of Randell who rides into a deserted town in which an old timer has discovered gold. He befriends the prospector and the two, aided by Randell's pal, have a real battle on their hands when a gang of outlaws decide to take over the town and the mine.

"Hopalong Rides Again."

"Hopalong Rides Again", another western adapted for the screen from a novel by Clarence E. Mulford is the first "Hopalong" picture in which Mulford's famous character is shown in a romantic role. In the film William Boyd portrays Cassidy, who attempts with the aid of his pal, "Windy", to round up a gang of cattle-rustlers. Complications arise when he discovers that the leader is the brother of the girl he loves. Boyd has to overcome some real obstacles before he finally brings the gang leader and his band of outlaws to justice. George Hayes plays "Windy," and Russell Hayden is cast as "Lucky."

CITIES TO MEET

Hunter Unable To Attend Gas Rate Parley In Columbus.

Mansfield will not be represented at the meeting of the Ohio division of Cities Alliance which convenes in Columbus next Wednesday to discuss gas rate reductions, Mayor Claude M. Hunter said today.

The meeting is being sponsored by W. C. Reed, Cleveland councilman, and Mayors F. D Link, Norwalk; Walter K. Weimer, Springfield, and Myron B Gessaman, Columbus.

Reed said one of the principal subjects to come up for discussion would be the "threatened nullification" of municipal authority to fix gas rates by ordinance after a utility has applied to the utilities commission for increased rates; and the natural gas bill which permits the federal power commission to regulate prices of interstate natural gas

A call to attend the meeting has been sent out to all principal Ohio cities and towns Mayor Hunter said that business would not permit him to leave Mansfield next week

BUYS NEW CAR

Commissioners Authorize Purchase at Cost of $724.

Richland county commissioners today had authorized County Engineer Howard C. Sword to purchase a Chevrolet coupe from the Mohican Chevrolet company for $724.

The purchase will call for a cash outlay of $400, with the remainder represented by the trade-in value of a Plymouth coupe.

The car will be used in the maintenance division of the county road department, Sword said.

Fat, Lazy Monkeys Problem For Zoo Keepers In Cincy

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — Anyone looking for a summer home for his Rhesus monkey should communicate with the Cincinnati zoo.

James A. Reilly, president of the Cincinnati zoological society, has become so disgusted with the way the zoo's present crop of monkeys become fat and lazy and contented in the winter that he has decided upon a new policy.

Reilly will buy 60 Rhesus monkeys at $12 50 apiece, provided they are young and healthy and provided the owner will repurchase them next fall at a reasonable price

"We need new blood," Reilly said. "We'll buy them young in the spring so 'hey're frisky for the summer. In the fall, the original owners buy them back. Under that system, we don't have to feed them in the winter which makes them self-satisfied. One winter at the zoo and a monk's laziness is appalling."

SUGARDALE HAM

a taste delight

■ You have a taste delight awaiting you when you try SUGARDALE ham — it's unlike any other you ever tried. Only hams from selected young Ohio porkers are used. Then they are cured by a secret family recipe which includes smoking by hickory chips, curing with rare spices and flavoring with real Vermont Maple Sugar.

For economy, buy a whole or half Sugardale Ham, and ask your dealer to cut a slice or two from the center for frying.

Glenville Court Cavorters Invade Tyger Lair Tonight

Cleveland Team Expected To Offer Troupe On 3-Game Cage Program.

TAUGHT a lesson in Sandusky that they will not soon forget, Mansfield high school basketball runabouts will try to make amends tonight when they entertain Cleveland Glenville on the home boards.

Losing their stride in a frightful second half to lose to Sandusky the other night after putting the Blue Streaks on the run in the early periods, Coach Russ Murphy's men of the hardwood are in no mood to act as congenial hosts to the visitors tonight.

Disappointed with their own performance in Sandusky, the Tygers have a lot of spite to take out on somebody, and why shouldn't Glenville be the victim, they ask?

There is a possibility that the Sandusky defeat will make a better ball club out of the Tygers. Prior to the defeat, the Men of Murphy had rung up four straight triumphs, and if they felt satisfied with this achievement, they do not show it now.

The Mansfield machine can operate more effectively than it did against Sandusky, and the players will attempt to prove it tonight.

Glenville is one of the Tygers' annual foes, and it has always provided the Murphymen with trouble. This years team is not expected to be an exception.

The Cleveland team battled the Tygers of last season to the last minute before admitting defeat.

The Cleveland team this season boasts of one of the strongest clubs in history. It is tied for second place in the eastern division of the Senate race. Outstanding performers are Capt. Abe Karp, a star all-around athlete, and Ed Goldfarb, who will make their last appearance in Glennvill, livery tonight. They will graduate at mid-season.

While Murphy was disappointed with the work of several of the Tygers in the Sandusky fracas, he expects to keep the lineup intact.

Mansfield Reserves Tackle Lucas Quintet In Second Prelim Tilt.

The Tyger-Glenville game will headline a program of three games. In the first game at 6 p. m., the No. 2 Mansfield reserve team will meet the First Presbyterian quintet, and the No. 1 reserve club meets Coach Gil Weikart's Lucas high school courtmen, Richland county league contenders. The Lucas lineup includes Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford, two of the league's leading scorers.

LEXINGTON TITLE HOPES TO BE DECIDED TONIGHT

Minutemen Can Move Into Thick of Race by Turning Back Defending Champions.

THE championship possibilities of the Lexington Minutemen will be determined tonight in the Ontario high school gym.

Defeated three times, Coach John Rees' cagers can jump into the thick of the race by turning back the Warriors tonight. Ontario has lost one game.

The Minutemen, led by the veteran Richard Rule, have made rapid strides since the season got under way, and rival coaches say Lexington is the most improved team in the circuit.

Win Over Madison.

Rees' courtiers established themselves as title threats last week when they stopped Madison, which toppled Ontario the previous week.

Incidentally, the victory scored over the Rams was the first ever registered by a Lexington team over a quintet coached by Al Fendrick, or the first in the Madison rivalry in over nine years.

Madison, which is a half game ahead of Lexington, is host to Bellville tonight. The Rams won easily over Bellville in their first meeting, and is favored to make it two straight tonight.

The other game sends Butler against Union on the latter team's hardwood. The Bulldogs suffered their first defeat last week, and it is only natural to suspect that they will be out to start another streak tonight.

Playing on their own court, the Indians, who have won their last two games after a disappointing start, may be troublesome.

Tangle Saturday.

Saturday night will take Lucas, which meets the Mansfield Reserves in a preliminary to the Mansfield-Cleveland Glenville game tonight, to Bellville for a league game, while Madison goes to Shiloh for a non-league engagement.

Bowman Team Tops Newman

The courtiers of Bowman street school retained their lead in the City Grade School Basketball league race yesterday by turning back Newman, 16 to 6, at Mansfield high. Hedges continued its winning ways by edging Brinkerhoff, 11 to 10, Bushnell downed Western, 6 to 3, Prospect defeated Carpenter, 13 to 10, and West Fifth beat Woodland, 11 to 6, in the other tilts

Track Changes Considered

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's high schools . . having erased the center jump from boys' basketball . . . considered today a plan to eliminate girls' basketball from the scholastic sports program, not to mention a couple of changes in the track regulations. The javelin throw has been tossed out . . . as has the medley relay.

Now the spacing of the low hurdles will be debated . . . many of the coaches demanding a bit more distance betwen the barriers. The new high hurdle height is okeh, Townsend said.

. . changes made in the track rules will be effective in the county, district and state tourneys this year.

ODDS AGAINST BRADDOCK IN COMEBACK ATTEMPT

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—James J. Braddock, the "Cinderella Man" of the prize ring, hits the comeback trail again tonight, but the odds are overwhelmingly against him ever attaining his ultimate goal, the recovery of the heavyweight title.

Others have tried before—Corbett, Jeffries, Willard and Dempsey— and all fell short. Nevertheless, Braddock still thinks his fighting weapons are sharp enough to keep him in the running for the crown, and he will test them tonight against Tommy Farr, the rugged Welshman.

Less than four years ago, when he was 28 and considered a "has been," Braddock started a comeback that whirled him from relief rolls to the championship. He hasn't had a fight since last June 22 when he was knocked out by Joe Louis.

Farr, eight years Braddock's junior, also has been idle since he faced Louis. That was last August when "Tonypandy" Tommy surprised by staying 15 rounds with the champion in Louis' first defense.

The betting odds favor Farr, 8-5. They were 11-5 but dropped sharply when Braddock began to show good form in workouts last week. The winner is scheduled to meet former Champion Max Baer on March 11. Both already have registered victories over Maxie.

To both men tonight's battle marks a crossroads in their careers. Braddock, if he loses, definitely will quit the ring. Farr, because he is the favorite, must win if he hopes to fulfill his dream of financial security.

* * * * *

THE Welshman has known poverty. His ambition is to make as much money as he can in the ring and retire in comfort. If he loses to the aging Braddock it may mark the end of his American career and shatter his dreams of wealth.

Farr appears in better condition than when training for Louis last summer. In his boxing sessions, he has concentrated on developing a knockout punch. Twenty sparring partners quit him because they claimed he roughed it up too much.

HEDGES PLAYS AT Y

Host to Perrysville in Bi-County League Game Tonight.

Hedges 7th and 8th grade cagers will meet Perrysville in a Bi-County league game at the Y. M. C. A at 8 p. m. today. This should develop into an interesting game as the visitors won over Hedges, 27 to 26, on the Perrysville floor several weeks ago.

Simpson's game with Hayesville has been postponed.

Hi Notes Whip Supply Cagers

Led by Bruback, who dumped in 13 points, the pace-setting Benny Hi Notes defeated the Athletic Supply (formerly the Moritz All Stars), 38 to 19, in a Senior basketball league game at the Friendly House last night. The Rex Billiards turned back the Dinger Independents, 26 to 23, and the Blue Goose club smothered the Zeigler Independents, 27 to 19, in the other games.

SUFFERS SECOND LOSS

Reformatory Team Loses One-Point Game to Roller Bearings.

The Ohio State Reformatory cage outfit suffered its second setback of the new year last night by bowing to the Timken Roller Bearing quintet of Mt Vernon, 35 to 34. Mt Vernon, paced by Roberts who set the individual pace with 14 points, hopped into the lead in the opening frame and, although blanked in the final chapter, was able to emerge with the one-point decision. Moore collected 12 points for the Inmates

Galion Affair Tops Schedule

The big game on the N. C. O. conference program tonight will be staged in Galion where the Orangemen tussle with the first-class outfit representing Bucyrus.

Both teams have title ambitions, and the fur should fly in all directions when they collide. The game should attract one of the biggest crowds in Galion history.

With four of the regulars listed among the first 15 scorers in the circuit, Bucyrus packs a dangerous scoring punch. Galion's chances depend on its ability to halt Deaver, Carlisle, Henderson, and Schemel. Bob Gardner is Galion's chief scoring threat.

The only defeat suffered by the Redmen this season came last week when they bowed to Mt. Vernon, 57 to 38.

Shelby plays at Marion in the only other game scheduled. The Ashland-Mt. Vernon game has been postponed due to a small pox scare.

Tygers To Perform At Mt. Vernon Saturday

The Mansfield high school cagers will play their third game in five days Saturday night when they travel to Mt. Vernon. Mansfield was approached late yesterday by Mt. Vernon authorities to fill a vacancy on the Jackets' schedule caused by the postponement of a game with Ashland, which asked for the postponement due to a small pox scare in that city.

While Murphy was not anxious to burden his courtmen with another game this week, he agreed to the contest as a favor to Mt. Vernon. Mt. Vernon is one of the leaders in the N. C. O. race.

Novice Leads Scoring In Women's Loop

Although a bowler for only a couple of months, La Donna Schuster, sister of Bob, Howard and John Schuster, former Mansfield high school athletic stars, is advancing rapidly in the pin sport.

Bowling her second time in the Women's league, Miss Schuster led the scoring at the Meder alleys last night with a 562 total. The young pin star, performing with the Mansfield Printers, came through with games of 212, 189 and 161.

The only other 500 totals were shot by Dintaman, Modern Beauty Salon, 527, and Yingling, Heilman Grocers, 507.

Shiloh Whips Adario, 56-24

SHILOH—The undefeated Shiloh high quintet continued its march towards the Twin-Valley league championship here last night by smothering Adario, 56 to 24. It was Shiloh's eighth straight loop victory. The Moser boys, Robert and Jay, were the offensive stars for the winners. Robert collected 19 points to set the individual pace, with Jay tallying 10. Tucker paced the losers with 14.

The Shiloh seconds defeated Adario, 24 to 8, in the preliminary.

Magyar, Routt In Semi-Final

Joe Maygar, scintillating Hungarian light-heavyweight, will match grips with the veteran R. R. (Railroad) Routt in the semi-final attraction of Monday's mat offering in the Armory.

Routt, who lost his health at the peak of a blazing career and then regained it by working a gold mine in the high altitude of southwestern Colorado, is in the midst of a come-back campaign.

In Routt's first appearance here last week he showed flashes of his former style. But Monday he will be throwing experience against youth, always an interesting experiment.

Magyar and Routt adorn the program which headlines a meeting between Frankie Hart of Holland and Joe Montana of Camden, N. J. Hart's recent victory over Walter Stratton has given him a strangle-hold on light heavyweight honors in this section.

Leaders On Game

Untiet Keglers Roll 2956 Total to Lead Scoring In Commercial Loop.

THE Untiet Insurance keglers indicated last night why they are on top of the Commercial B league standings.

The Agents compiled a 2956 total to lead the team scoring at the Meder alleys, and won three games from the Heilman Grocers, who tabulated a 2813 total.

Henrich, with a 254 and 637; Funston, 632, and Heilman, 603, led the Insurance men to a clean sweep over the Grocers, paced by Yingling's 627.

Sporting a middle game of 246, Flood smashed out a 624 to lead the second place Mansfield Printers to a 2751 total and a pair of wins over the Willis Billiards. The Mansfield Rugs rolled a 2743 to take a pair of wins from the Q Billiards while the Fifth Street Lunch, paced by Stauffer's 609, collected 2734 pins as they registered two victories at the expense of the Burger Dairys.

Haley rolled a 608 for the Halbark Clothiers, who swept their series with the Yuncker Sports, and the Commercial Freights won a pair of tilts from the Southern hotel.

BLAME PROFIT REALIZING FOR GENERAL DROP

Brokers Claim Yesterday's Flare-Up Responsible For Price Dip.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market lost most of its rallying urge in today's early proceedings.

Profit realizing on yesterday's flare-up, brokers said, was mainly responsible for reactions ranging from fractions to ardund a point. Volume was exceptionally small.

Erie was again depressed by announcement of a sharp decline in December net operating income.

Resisting the trend were Loew's, Crucible, Yellow Truck, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, American Can, American Telephone and Philip Morris. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

On the cheerful side of the market ledger was the week-end survey of Dun & Bradstreet estimating an upturn in retail spending for the country as a whole at 1 to 4 per cent over the previous week and 2 to 8 per cent above the corresponding period a year ago.

Wholesale demand was placed at 3 to 10 per cent ahead of the same 1937 week.

The review added that orders from merchants beyond immediate needs were restricted, which was in sharp contrast to last year when fall requirements were covered generously.

U. S. BOLSTERS HAWAII DEFENSE

13-Plane Squadron to Be Dispatched to Islands.

HAMILTON FIELD, Cal.—(AP)—The United States army moved toward bolstering Hawaii against a possible air attacker today by announcing it would transfer a powerful 13-plane bombardment squadron from here to the strategic islands.

Thirty officers and 180 men involved in the transfer will sail from San Francisco Feb. 1 aboard the army transport Republic.

The bombers, twin-motored (Douglas) ships of the latest design, will be sent to the islands by boat and not by flight, as has been the navy's custom the past year in transferring 48 planes from the mainland to Hawaii.

ASHLAND, CITY FIGHT DISEASE

city have been vaccinated, with every available doctor being enlisted to aid in the city wide inoculation.

No official ban has been placed on public meetings, but Dr. Bolgnard has asked the co-operation of citizens and meetings have been postponed and high school basketball games called off.

In Mansfield today, Dr. Rehder reiterated his plea that every child in the city be immunized against diphtheria. He said that while every effort was being made to locate carriers of the germ, it was impossible to trace them all, and the safest measure is inoculation with diphtheria anti-toxin.

Foley has been isolated at the hotel and the others at their homes. There has been but one positive case of the disease, that of Clarence Feeman, 4, who has been confined to the isolation ward at General hospital. Since it was discovered that he had the disease, nine persons have been isolated in the city when it was found that they were carriers of the germ.

At Pavonia, Max Markel and Joseph Jasper were in isolation at their homes as carriers of diphtheria, while children in their homes are under quarantine for scarlet fever, according to Dr. Rehder.

At Marion precautions were being taken against a spread of scarlet fever, with 11 basketball games scheduled for tonight in the rural sections of Marion county called off and Prospect and Pleasant schools closed. Dr. M. M. Weinbaum, Marion city health commissioner, said there were three cases in the city and six in the county, two of them school teachers.

DEMANDS PROBE

Solon Wants To Know Why Ohio Pays Double For Coal.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—State Finance Director M. Ray Allison, who last week refused to pay $128 for expenses of the senate graft investigating committee, today was asked by a member of the committee to investigate the Democratic state administration's purchases of coal for state institutions.

Senator Verner E. Metcalf, R., Washington, demanded on the floor of the senate that Allison check all purchases of coal by the state and determine why the city of Cleveland is able to buy the same coal for 97 cents a ton less than is paid by the state.

Senator Metcalf's demand came after a session of the graft committee in Cleveland, where records were produced showing that the city of Cleveland buys coal for 78 cents a ton, while the state pays $1.75.

MRS. TAFT RESIGNS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Mrs. Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati resigned today as treasurer of the National League of Women Voters to aid her husband's candidacy for the senate.

GIRDLER URGES BUSINESS RULES

"Can't Follow New Program Every Day," Steel Head Says.

NEW YORK—(AP)—An appeal from Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel corporation, was before the Roosevelt administration today for "a definite program of government relations toward business."

"Business and industry are able and willing to adapt themselves to any fair and sound program or set of rules," the industrialist declared in a speech last night at a dinner given in his honor by New York Alumni of Lehigh university.

"You can't follow new programs every day," he said, "if they are entirely opposite on Thursday to what they were on Tuesday."

TOLEDOANS SKID

Slippery Roads Delay Hundreds In Reaching Jobs.

TOLEDO —(AP)— Roads and highways throughout the Toledo area were reported covered with ice today as rain which began falling during the night froze as it fell.

The slippery surface delayed hundreds of Toledoans in reaching their places of employment.

EX-GRID STAR DIES OF WOUNDS

Girl Friend Tells Police He Shot Himself Accidentally 'Messing With Gun.'

to replace the gun beneath the pillow, it accidentally discharged, the bullet entering his chest, she said.

Tells Couple of Shooting.

She ran from the room and down stairs shouting to Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, "Sam has shot himself."

While Merritt ran up the stairs to the second floor, Mrs. Merritt said: "I said to the girl, he wouldn't do that. And she replied, 'Yes he did, he was messing around with a gun'."

Mrs. Merritt said her husband came back and told her to call a physician. She said she first called a doctor and was informed that he could not make the call, but advised her to call an ambulance.

The youth died in the emergency room at General hospital a few minutes after arrival.

Merritt said the boy uttered only a few words before he lapsed into unconsciousness.

"When I reached the room," Merritt said, "Banks said 'call a doctor quick.' When I asked him how it happened, he said, 'I shot myself'."

Merritt and Miss Bruce rode to the hospital in the ambulance with Banks. Mrs. Merritt followed in her car.

Interrupts Police School.

Police first learned of the shooting at 8:54 p. m. when they were called by the hospital. Capt. John Miller, commanding a cruiser called Chief Bates at the station where he was conducting the first class in his police school in crime detection.

Bates, with E. C. Fuller, identification expert, and three detectives inspected the house. He said two guns were discovered in the rear bedroom where Banks had been fatally wounded. One was a .32 caliber revolver, found on the dresser, while the other, a .25 caliber automatic lay in the corner of the room where it apparently had been thrown by the recoil when discharged. One empty shell was found in the opposite corner of the room.

Quizzed at Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt and the girl were questioned most of the night by police.

Mrs. Merritt said she had seen the revolver in Banks' room on various occasions, but had never seen any other gun in the room. The gun she identified as having seen was the one found on the dresser and the one which had not been fired.

Miss Bruce said her home was in Cincinnati, but that she came here from Sandusky to live with relatives. She said she had been in Mansfield since October and worked as a maid for a west side family.

Coroner Hugh C. Winbigler said the bullet entered Banks' left shoulder near the breast bone, took a downward course and lodged near the right rib in the back, perforating the upper lobe of the left lung in its course. An internal hemorrhage into the pleural cavity was the immediate cause of death, the coroner said. His verdict was that Banks' death was either accidental or homicide, and asked Chief Bates to determine which.

Banks was widely known in athletic circles as the result of his football playing at Mansfield High school during 1934, 1935 and 1936. He did not report until the season was under way last fall and appeared in uniform only during the Massillon game after which he withdrew from school.

Although he had never played varsity basketball, he was on the reserve team and as a member of the track squad, he twice took the district 440 yard dash title.

Banks parents died a little more than a year ago and since that time he had been financing his own way through school. At one time he was employed at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company but for the past few months he has been unemployed.

The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home pending completion of arrangements. He is survived by two sisters, one in Ashland and the other in Pittsburgh.

coffee are distributed among them. It lasts them until 4:30 each afternoon when they go home after an eight-hour day in the woods.

It's all a part of an efficiently organized program, according to Aaron Davis, former Richland county sheriff who is supervising the wood-cutting along with Jack Hamilton and William Bell.

"Elery Cook is our mess sergeant. He prepares our food and sends it out to the camp each day. He takes a supply of wood in exchange for his work. Delano lodge provides the funds to buy the food supplies," Davis explained.

"Each morning all the men are divided into groups of threes. Two are on the cross-cut saws and the third trims.

"A buzz saw comes along and saws the wood into chunks and at the close of the day, each crew divides the wood cut between the three of them. The system works out perfectly and its the aim of the lodge to have as many unemployed men as possible have enough fuel to last them for the rest of the winter," Davis added.

The buzz saw, mounted on a small truck, travels in all sections of the area and cuts huge stacks of wood into small pieces. Use of the saw was donated by Fred Kilgore of Lexington, Davis said.

Other saws, axes, wedges and other wood cutting tools are brought by the men themselves. Other equipment was donated by the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company where all of the men are employed.

of the ransom money was found in a portable typewriter case.

Then the federal men drove to Superior, Wis., and departed for the Spooner vicinity. The trail to the cave was broken with horses and bobsleds.

Taken To Hide-Out.

Anders was returned to the FBI headquarters here about 12:30 a. m. today. Hoover said he would be taken to Chicago by Saturday.

The detailed Anders' confession as given by Hoover related how Ross was brought to the Minnesota hideout immediately after the kidnaping.

The place was described as a wood frame dugout, level with the earth, about six feet deep, six wide and ten long. Hoover said Ross who was snatched away from his secretary, Miss Florence Freihage, while driving near Chicago, was kept manacled in the dungeon for about 13 days.

Indications were that the wealthy Chicagoan had undergone great suffering during his imprisonment both from cold and scant rations.

The transfer to the Wisconsin cave was made by automobile about Oct. 9. There Ross again was manacled.

While the abductors operated out of this region the ransom was paid. Then, said Hoover, there was a dispute over sharing of the loot.

"Anders and Gray clashed," said the FBI chief, "and Anders knocked Gray down and then shot him through the head. Apparently Ross attempted to intervene and also was knocked to the ground and while struggling there, was shot through the head and killed."

Pressed about reported attempts to link Anders with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, Hoover said: "So far as we know there is no such connection."

Concerning the Arthur Fried disappearance at White Plains, N. Y., and the kidnap killing of young Charles Mattson of Tacoma, Wash., Hoover replied: "It is not my policy to make any announcements relative to cases that have not been solved."

N. E. ALBRIGHT DIES IN CRASH

Mansfield, Ashland Musician And Instructor Killed In Auto-Truck Collision.

Ned E. Albright, 40, prominent Mansfield and Ashland musician, died last night in a Berea hospital from injuries suffered in an auto-truck accident at 11:30 p. m. on route, 42, four miles north of Medina.

Albright suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries, and died shortly after he was taken to the hospital. With Albright in the car was Miss Caroline Loris, 23, of Ashland, a pupil, who suffered a fractured skull.

According to United Press dispatches received here, Albright was killed in a head-on collision with a truck at the foot of a hill on route 42. Albright was driving. The two were returning from Cleveland where he has a music studio.

Born March 5, 1897 in Kokomo, Ind., he came to Mansfield from Indianapolis. He made his home here for about seven years, and was prominent in musical circles, having played drums in theater orchestras, and conducting his own studio. At the time of his death he conducted drum classes in the Eugene Smart studios.

He left Mansfield for Ashland six years ago, where he opened his own studio, and was assisted by his wife in teaching music at Ashland high school. He also maintained studios in Willard and Coshocton. He was a member of McVey Post No. 16, American Legion, and Mansfield Local No. 159, American Federation of Musicians.

Surviving are his wife, Jane, and two children, Max and Rebecca Jane of Ashland; four brothers, Fred E. of New York, a drummer in the Lucky Strike radio orchestra, Robert of Tempi, Texas, Neil of Los Angeles and Harry of Kokomo, Ind.

The body was removed to the Jones funeral home here, and will be taken to the family home in Ashland, 618 West Main street, tomorrow. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the Presbyterian church in Ashland, with Rev. Harold Andrews officiating. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Presbyterian church from 1 to 2:30 p. m. Monday.

LAFARGE TURNS OUT NEW STORY ON INDIAN LIFE

'The Enemy Gods' By Author Of 'Laughing Boy' Among Library's Additions.

Oliver LaFarge, the author of the popular "Laughing Boy", has written another story of Navajo Indian life. "The Enemy Gods," one of the new fiction books at the Mansfield Public library this week, presents the conflict which grows in the soul of a young Navajo, Divine Arrow, when he tries to live a white man's life and forget Indian ways.

This week's addition to the John Baxter Black Memorial collection is H. G. Wells' first full length novel in several years, "Brynhild, or The Show of Things", in it, Rowland Palace, an English author, becomes absorbed in building up for himself a great reputation before the public. Brynhild, his wife, is unimpressed by the "facade" and finds comfort and companionship with a lesser writer.

The story winning first prize in a novelette contest sponsored by Little, Brown and company recently was "Remembring Laughter" by Wallace Stegner. A moving tale of Western farm life, it tells of Elspeth McLeod's love for her brother-in-law, Alec Stuart, and of the heart break it brought to the two of them and to her sister, Margaret, Alec's wife.

Vicki Baum's new novel, "Tale of Bali", presents an authentic and vital picture of that South Sea island and its inhabitants, possibly because the author has visited there several times. While the story is concerned with the last stand of the Balinese against Dutch invasion in the early 1900's, it resembles the author's first big success, "Grand Hotel" in the wide range of characters, with peasants, nobles and Dutch officials.

Other new fiction this week at the library is "Talisman Ring" by Heyer; "Outlaw of Antler," Robertson; "Flight from Yesterday", Webb; and "She Painted Her Face", by Yates.

Another Volume on Bali.

Among the new non-fiction this week is another volume on Bali, which takes the reader to that romantic and much-picturized spot.

In "The Island of Bali" Miguel Covarrubias describes in detail the geography, economics, people and customs of the island. There are 114 photographs by Ross Covarrubias and 90 drawings by the artist-author, which assist in the interpretation of a strange and interesting country.

Younghill Kang, author of "The Grass Roof", has written his autobiography in "East Goes West". Mr. Kang is a young Korean who left his native land because he hated Japanese domination. Coming to New York and beginning a new existence, he encountered many difficulties and hardships. Showing a healthy sense of humor, Mr. Kang reports many amusing incidents.

Frances Alda, one of the greatest of the Metropolitan Opera group of a quarter of a century and more ago, recently published her own history and her observations of the great and near great with whom she came in contact. The story was published first as a magazine serial and now appears in book form, "Men, Women and Tenors."

Gelett Burgess, returning to America after 11 years in France, finds that his friends look older than their years, their age increased by mannerisms In "Look Eleven Years Younger" he gives antidotes, both mental and physical for that general let down feeling and negative attitude toward life.

Other non-fiction this week includes "New Frontiers of The Mind", by Joseph Banks Rhine: "Fine Art of Preaching", Blackwood; "Diplomatic History of the U. S.", Bemis; "Foundations of Curriculum Building," Norton and Norton; "Atoms, Men and Stars", Rusk; "Hoked Rug", Kent; "Scientific Checkers", Banks; "Best Plays of 1936-37", edited by Mantle; "Forbidden Journey", Maillart; "Integrity: The Life of George W. Norris", by Neuberger and Kahn.

RUSE SNARES HUSBAND

FORT WORTH, Tex. — (U.P.) — One way to find a husband is to tell police he stole a motor car. That was the reasoning of a Fort Worth woman who reported the theft of her car. The husband had to tell police several things before they freed him. He promised to tell his wife a lot more.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Boys of today think of their tops as being quite modern toys, but, as a matter of fact, they were used more than 100 years ago. In those days when a boy wanted a top, he hunted for a block of wood and whittled one for himself. It was quite a bit of work, and doubly treasured for that very reason. "Tops and Whistles" by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey, is a collection of 16 stories about early American toys and their owners. Whistles, drums, bows and arrows, fire engines, Uncle Sam penny banks, are some of the stories that will interest boys. For girls—dolls' houses, Jenny-Lind paper dolls, toy furniture and pewter tea sets all have their stories and pictures in this unusual book.

ATTACK BOARDS

Attorney's Suit Challenges Commission's Set-Up.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Attorney R. R. Zurmehly has filed in the second district court of appeals a suit challenging constitutionality of the state industrial commission's regional claims boards.

Zurmehly said the four boards, created by the legislature last year, operated as independent units and that often their decisions on similar cases were conflicting.

The attorney represented the Larcomb Construction company of Columbus. For 18 years, he was an assistant attorney general and acted as state counsel for the industrial commission.

CITY PREPARES FOR SUMMER STREET REPAIRS

Receives Bids On Materials And Sewer Pipe For WPA Project Feb. 9.

Purchase of street materials for 1938, and a quantity of new sewer pipe—a matter which faces the city at the beginning of each year—will be considered within the next two weeks by the board of control.

Sealed bids on a variety of street materials, including the sewer pipe will be received at the office of the secretary of the board of control, Wednesday, Feb 9, it was announced today by Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert.

While the purchase of materials for street repairs, improvements and supplies are purchased at this time each year, the purchase of sewer pipe is in conjunction with an intensified sewer extension program which the administration hopes to continue throughout 1938 with the assistance of WPA

Lists Materials.

Street materials to be purchased include 25 cars of cinders, five cars of cement, 10 cars of concrete sand, one car of mason sand, five cars of granulated slag, 20 cars of limestone, 20 cars of gravel, 40,000 shale paving brick, 50 tons calcium chloride, 100 tons refuse salt, 5,000 gallons asphalt cutback, seven cars road oil, 1,000 cubic yards crushed gravel and 100 tons asphat tiller.

Bids also are asked on 400 gallons white traffic paint, 400 gallons orange traffic paint, 100 cubic yards pre-mixed concrete, 10 cars of vitrified sewer pipe

Each proposal must state the trade name of the product, unit price, carload price, and any other information pertinent to the grade and kind of material to be furnished, and must be accompanied by a certified check for $25 on a Mansfield bank, Styert said.

7 MORE CASES

Clinic Report Shows Fifth Of Group Examined Have T.B.

Seven of the 38 suspected tuberculosis cases examined in the January diagnostic chest clinic were positive cases of the disease, the report of Dr. Roy C. Rehder, public health commissioner, showed today.

There were 18 suspects from the city who were examined and of these three were positive cases, while all three cases from Shelby were positive. From the remainder of the county there were eight cases of which only one proved positive.

A recheck clinic will be held Jan. 28 at General hospital. The tubeiculosis clinics are financed through the sale of Christmas Health Seals in December.

FATHER'S PLEA WINS LENIENCY

Court Frees Youth Accused In Son's Traffic Death.

HAMILTON—(AP)—The plea of the father of a youth killed in a recent automobile accident won leniency for the man charged with the death

Bonnie Petereit, 24, pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge and received a suspended jail sentence of six months. His car struck and killed James Vance Gillman, high school student of nearby Monroe, Dec 4.

Gillman's father, Roland Gillman, appeared at Petereit's arraignment before Judge P P. Boli today and expressed belief that Petereit had "suffered enough"

ERIE FILES

Rail Line Seeks to Organize Under Bankruptcy Act.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Erie railroad, owing more than $2,000,000 in bond interest and principal has announced it was filing an application to reorganize under section 77 of the national bankruptcy act.

A statement issued at the close of a directors meeting said:

"The board of directors of the Erie railroad company today authorized application to the United States district court under section 77 of the bankruptcy act. Application is being made in the district court of Northern Ohio, Eastern district."

The directors decided upon the bankruptcy precedure after its efforts to obtain a $6,006,000 loan from the RFC were stalemated by the RFC's insistence that a Chesapeake & Ohio railroad guarantee the loan C. & O., which has a large interest in Erie, refused

Cleveland Considers Lease Or Purchase of Coal Mine.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Cleveland may purchase or lease a mine to cut its coal bills.

Frank O. Wallene, city utilities director, said the city planned to file suit against the bituminous coal commission against a new price schedule which he estimated would add $300,000 yearly to the city's bill.

If the city is unable to overthrow the price schedule, he added, action to lease or buy might be taken. "We already have received several proposals," Wallene said.

WOMAN JUDGE LEADS

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Municipal Judge Lillian M. Westropp, who a few months ago was an "official observer" during a series of police vice raids, led a police policy raid which dispersed 600 numbers players. She toured Cleveland's east side with four other policemen in a raid on the policy racket.

Looking Over Gift Guide Contest Entries

Paul W. Williams (seated) secretary of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and J. M. O'Hara, classified advertising manager of The News-Journal, look over the huge pile of entries in the Christmas Gift Guide contest, which the classified advertising department conducted, and in which prizes were recently awarded. More than a thousand entries were received, and judges worked for more than a week before the winners were selected. Fifty dollars in cash and 150 theater tickets were given as prizes.

Reproduction of Art of Caveman Put on Exhibition

PHILADELPHIA, Pa — (INS) —Reproductions of the cavemen's art, dating back more than 20,000 years, have been placed on exhibition at the Academy of Natural Sciences here.

According to Dr. Leo Frobenius, who made the reproductions and has spent 30 years seeking cave drawings, the intention of the artists was to cast a spell over the animals they represented and thus make them powerless before the primitive huntsmen's attacks.

The custom still survives in certain parts of Australia and Africa, says the scientist who once witnessed such a ceremony. The natives drew the likeness of the quarry on the ground and then plunged their spears into its neck. The next day, said Dr. Frobenius, they brought in a large antelope buck, pierced through the neck exactly as it had been portrayed on the ground the day before.

Prehistoric man, however made his drawings on stones and in caves, thus preserving them so well that the Doctor was able to make thousands of facsimiles merely by tracing them on canvas and copying the original colors.

WOMAN MANAGES ESTATE

SINGAPORE — (AP) — A Yorkshire woman, Mrs. Janet Cowling, manages a large rubber estate and controls a large native population single-handed in the territory of Papua, British New Guinea. She is known even to many of the natives as "Janet."

FEDERAL JUDGE SENTENCES 8

Railway Mail Clerk Gets 2 Years For Robbery; Ohioan Sentenced For Forgery.

TOLEDO—(UP)—Raymond Serems, Bourbon, Ind., railway mail clerk, pleaded guilty to a charge of robbing the mails on a train passing through Ohio and was sentenced by Federal Judge Frank L. Kloeb to two years imprisonment.

Michael Glatki and Michael Linow of Fremont pleaded guilty to counterfeiting charges and were sentenced to two years in Leavenworth prison. They were ordered deported to Russia at the expiration of their sentences.

Edward Brininger of Clyde, O., pleaded guilty to a charge of forging a $50 WPA check and was sentenced to two years.

Paul M. Wade, Marion, charged with transportation of stolen automobiles, was sentenced to 18 months in Chillicothe reformatory.

Rudolph Ruiz, Paulding, charged with possession of marijuana, was given a three-year sentence.

Raymond Dozek, Lima, pleaded not guilty to a charge of robbing the mails. His trial will be held next week.

Ralph Cowen, Kenton, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing and forging a federal check. His trial will be held next week.

Milo James Conner, Lima, pleaded not guilty to a charge of forging a national guard pay check. Trial will be next week.

PANAY SALVAGE EFFORTS HALTED

U. S. Gives Up Plan to Recover Boat Sunk by Japs.

SHANGHAI — (AP) — United State naval authorities have announced that efforts to salvage the American gunboat Panay, sunk by Japanese bombs in the Yangtze river Dec. 12, had been abandoned after the ship's safe and official papers had been recovered.

A salvage crew taken by the gunboat Oahu to the point above Nanking where the Panay went down announced the gunboat was damaged beyond repair and her hull was abandoned.

Some personal belongings of the crew also were recovered.

SAVORY SALMON CASSEROLE
Everyone will want second helpings!

1 pound can salmon	Salmon liquor
¼ cup Spry	Milk
1 tea. poon onion, finely chopped	1 teaspoon lemon juice
1½ cups soft bread crumbs	¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ teaspoon salt	1 tablespoon parsley, chopped
¼ teaspoon pepper	1 egg slightly beaten

Remove bones and skin from salmon. Separate into flaked pieces with a fork. Melt Spry in frying pan. Add onion and cook until yellow. Add bread crumbs, salt, and pepper, and brown lightly. (Purer ALL-vegetable Spry gives fried foods such delicate flavor. Be sure to use Spry!)

Put salmon liquor into a cup and pour in enough milk to make 1 cup. Combine salmon, crumbs and liquid. Add lemon juice, lemon rind, parsley and egg, and blend thoroughly, being careful not to mash salmon pieces. Pour into 8-inch casserole greased with Spry. Bake in moderately hot oven (375°F.) 30 minutes. Serves 6 at a cost of only 30¢.

(All measurements in this recipe are level)

CORRECTION OF HOUSE NUMBER SYSTEM URGED

City Engineer's Report Also Advises Vacating Of Unused Alleys, More Water Lines.

An exhaustive list of recommendations, one which proposes a correction of the house numbering system, was incorporated in City Engineer W. C. Statler's annual report on file today with Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert.

Statler's recommendation proposes no special system nor a method of financing the project, but merely states that a correction of the house numbering should be made where necessary.

Vacating of all alleys in the city that are not of any particular benefit to adjoining properties or the general public, was another new recommendation of the engineer. Numerous other proposals are repetition of those suggested in previous years.

In connection with water improvements in the city, Statler advised the construction of additional trunk line mains to serve small main areas, and the annual inspection of all valves in the distribution system.

Urges Viaduct Again.

For the third consecutive year, included in the report was recommendations for a north-south highway in the west part of the city to connect Park avenue west and Springmill street and involving the construction of viaduct over railroad tracks where a proposed street would cross them. It also suggests that consideration be given to the elimination of more grade crossings within the city.

Again included in the report were recommendations for a public parking grounds in the business district to alleviate the increasing traffic problem; the grading of all unimproved streets to the established grades; continuation of sidewalk repairs; the planning of additional main line sanitary sewers, and to provide for additional park areas and recreational centers.

Aaided by WPA and PWA funds, engineering projects during 1937 totaled $251,400, or approximately $100,000 less than was spent the year previous.

For this amount, the city benefitted by the construction of 6,072 feet of sanitary and storm sewers costing $27,600, of which the city and property owners financed $16,200. Street repaving and widening of six streets totaled $84,200, of which $39,800 was provided from federal grants. Water main extensions totalling nearly four miles were laid at the cost of $31,700, of which 50 per cent of the amount, or $15,900 was met by the city.

Improvement in the city park system included the Liberty park bathhouse which was constructed at a cost of $29,700, of which the city paid $11,600.

In the development of the city's water supply, financed through a PWA grant, $40,000 was spent last year in connecting the new Brumenshenkel well with the city's distribution system. In this project the city's share exceeded that of the federal grant, $25,900 being paid by the city and $14,100 by the government.

"Trust Camay to give you a lovely

Bride Complexion"

SAYS THIS BEAUTIFUL MARYLAND BRIDE

ROCKVILLE, MD.
I always tell my friends to use Camay, because Camay made my own skin clearer, smoother.
Sincerely,
(Signed) DOROTHY DOREY SULLIVAN
(Mrs. Gerard Sullivan)
November 10, 1937

It's glorious to have—it's grand to see—such exhilarating good looks as are Dorothy Sullivan's. Bewitching hazel eyes, a smile like sunshine, a fresh-as-morning complexion are hers. And yours is the good luck to get a behind-the-scenes beauty tip from this lovely bride. "What every girl should know," says she, "is how Camay can help one's complexion."

Are you, too, as wise as this young bride? For complexions are so important. And just simple Camay care can help you to have a skin that's fresh, smooth, radiant. That's how modern girls do it—with Camay!

Just try this bland beauty soap that cleanses so thoroughly, ridding the face of all dust and grime. Then watch for the soft glow, the "alive" look that Camay's rich, creamy lather brings to your face. That's proof your skin is getting the gentle, stimulating care it needs for fresh good looks.

And Camay's so mild—mild as Nature in her gentlest mood! Time after time, in tests for mildness against other leading soaps, on every type of skin, Camay—the real beauty soap—was definitely, provably milder.

Begin today to care for your skin with Camay. Order half a dozen cakes from your dealer—its price is amazingly low.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1938.

It appears that each generation must find out for itself that "crime doesn't pay."

Some scientists contend that mankind is reverting to the ape—but there must have been an intermediate stage that started the fingernail-painting fad.

A Boston business man told a senate committee, "You have to take in more than you pay out," but such a reactionary idea would scarcely appeal to John L. Lewis.

Criticism Should Be Fair.

THIS is an era of public criticism, and there is certainly plenty of it in the United States today. There cannot be too much criticism of people and things, of the government, of any political party or other group—provided it is fair and constructive. It is by criticism that we correct abuses and restrain people going wrong in public or private places.

But what is "fair" criticism?

The first essential of fairness, perhaps, is not to assume bad motives in people who do things we object to, nor to start with the assumption that they are crooked or insincere and deliberately trying to wrong others.

Who knows what any person's motives are? The vast majority of people, in public life or private life, probably mean to do right and think they are doing right.

We have a right, or even a duty, to criticise their acts or policies in an impersonal way, and try to show where they are wrong. It is questionable whether anyone is justified, by the right of free speech and press or by moral right, in going farther than that, unless there is proof of criminality.

When a Stranger Goes to Church.

SOME inkling of the difficulties encountered by a stranger in a large city is disclosed in a letter to a Detroit newspaper, in which a newcomer to that city tells of his experience in church attendance.

Making reference to leaving at the close of the service, he says: "Not a single person in that entire congregation seemed to notice me. No one greeted me as I entered . . . I have visited many churches in Detroit. Never once have I been asked to come again. I am only a young man and I would very much like to become a member of some church, but I have yet to find a church willing to extend a hand in friendly greeting."

If such an attitude is common to churches of the large cities it becomes easier to understand why so many young people are attracted by the more sociable atmosphere of less wholesome surroundings.

Fortunately the churches of smaller cities are vexed by no such problems. It may be doubted if in any Mansfield church, for instance, a stranger could come and go, unnoticed or unwelcomed. He would more likely find a hand extended in friendly greeting as he entered, an usher to show him to a seat, and at least a few people approaching after the service and expressing interest in him, accompanied by an invitation to come again. Then, if he attended a second time, there would be further effort toward acquaintanceship, with probably an invitation to join in some of the church activities and social affairs. There could be no mistaking the warmth and sincerity of welcome and the new-comer would soon feel himself to be a part of the community and of the church.

It is regrettable that some cities grow to such bigness that even their churches lose opportunities for helpfulness.

Psychological Problem.

SIR CHARLES MORGAN WEBB, British author and economist now in the United States on a lecture tour, expresses a familiar idea in a slightly different way.

"The world has learned how to produce enough wealth to keep every one in comfort," he says, "but has not learned to distribute wealth, because that is a psychological problem and not a physical one."

It would be quite easy for civilization to distribute all the goods it could produce if the problem were only physical. There are freight cars and trucks and ships and airplanes to transport things. There are warehouses, markets, stores and men to house and handle things in every center and outlying district. If the material equipment were inadequate, more could easily be built.

The present jam in distribution clearly is caused by something else, and Sir Charles has probably named it. When the psychological problems are recognized and straightened out—our mental attitudes toward each other, toward goods, toward distribution, toward capital and labor, toward human rights, and so on—there should be no more really serious difficulties of this sort.

Power, Nerves, Visibility.

SAYS the commissioner of motor vehicles in New York state: "It is our firm conviction that the great increase in automobile accidents has not been due to obsolete highways or to increasing recklessness, but rather to the ease with which high speeds are obtained and the exacting demands which are made on the nervous system of the driver."

He believes the "unnecessary reserve power" should be taken out of the car, and then drivers should be made to realize that it is suicide to drive faster than the condition of any highway justifies. He can't see the need of a motor capable of 100 miles an hour when hardly a state in the union permits as much as 70 miles.

Not only should the motor and the human factor be considered, he argues, but there should be common-sense improvements in car design, especially to give better visibility.

"In the car of today," he says, "visibility has been sacrificed to an alarming degree. We have increased the speed and capacity of the modern car four times and have reduced the useful vision of the driver 90 per cent."

Most folks find it difficult to get stirred up over the idea that Dizzy Dean is considered worth no more than $10,000 a year.

Kipling's Recessional is believed to be the only poem ever rescued from the waste basket—which is probably just as well.

Presidential Zig-Zagging Proves Puzzling

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Even some of President Roosevelt's most devoted adherents confidentially admit that the White House tenant seems to them rather too kaleidoscopic for the country's economic welfare.

They express the utmost confidence in his general objective, but, in approaching it, they confess that his apparent zigs and zags follow one another so rapidly as to be confusing—confusing to his own supporters. And, if confusing to them, how much more confusing must they be to those who are more or less doubtful of his whole program?

Neither does he explain his changes from zig to zag and vice versa. He simply announces these changes, without accounting for them.

If all this is puzzling to politicians, who are accustomed to partisan zigging and zagging, how much more disorganizing must it be to non-partisan business, which, above everything, yearns for certainty.

ONE INSTANCE

Speaking only of lately:

We started in on a recession.

The administration gave evidences of a desire to counteract it. Business was encouraged.

Then out came Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, with a speech "panning" business to a fare-thee-well. Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes followed, giving business still worse Jesse.

It seemed impossible that these broadcasts could have been made without White House indorsement. Business was scared aplenty.

Yet, immediately afterward President Roosevelt sent to congress a message couched in decidedly conciliatory language toward the American business world. The presidential Jackson day talk was similarly placatory.

THEN—

Business began to feel better.

Jackson and Ickes were left out on a limb, but who cared for them —if the executive mansion did not back them.

It furthermore was proclaimed that the president was about to consult with a delegation representing capital and labor alike, inclusive of such leaders as Owen D. Young and John L. Lewis—to bring the two elements together and make everything lovely. It looked good.

But a few minutes before the Young-Lewis visitors were admitted President Roosevelt had a "press conference." At this conference President Roosevelt declared undying war against "holding companies"—business pets to the umpteenth degree, but correspondingly loathed by all 100 per cent liberals.

Naturally the Young-Lewis chat was discounted in advance by the preceding press conference.

TOO FAST?

President Roosevelt, coming into office, forecast that he would try a series of experiments.

If an experiment did not work, he said, he would try another one.

They come too fast, some New Dealers contend—not to mention anti-New Dealers.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Jan. 21, 1918.

Leonard Hautzenroeder, 70, pioneer cigar manufacturer, died.

Mansfield observed first "heatless Monday," with suspension of practically all industry and business.

William C. Ewalt of Mansfield and Miss Bertha Evanson were married at the bride's home in Cleveland.

Arthur H. Sayles moved from 48 Boughton avenue to new home at 460 West Fourth street.

Birthday party was given for Miss Margaret Van Ness, Poplar street.

Mr. and Mrs Samuel A. Honerwell moved to Mansfield from Cleveland.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday Jan. 21, 1933.

Thelma Reed and Virginia Leight went to Marion to attend province convention of Delta Theta Tau.

Mrs. William Coffindaffer, 217 Johns avenue, was dismissed from General hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Shade and son, Emmett, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Neff went to Detroit to attend a funeral.

Twelve little friends helped Billy Dune, 135 Glenn avenue, celebrate sixth birthday anniversary.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

How Workers Live In Russia.

By J. E. LE ROSSIGNOL
Dean, College of Business Administration, Nebraska University.

The conflict of opinion about Soviet Russia is partly due to the fact that casual visitors to that country, who have no knowledge of the language, have taken a more or less extensive conducted tour, and have not looked behind the scenes, often bring home a glowing report of present social conditions or at least insist that they are far better than before the revolution.

However, a number of well-informed and reliable authorities such as W. H. Chamberlin, L. E. Hubbard, Sir Walter Citrine, Andrew and Maria Smith, Eugene Lyons, Max Eastman, and Victor Serge, of whom the last five are or were communists, have lately revealed a deplorable state of affairs among the mass of city workers and peasants who, it seems, are being ruled and exploited by the bureaucracy more ruthlessly than under the despotism of the Tsars.

Victor Serge (Victor Lvovick Kebalchich), for example, in his recent book, RUSSIA TWENTY YEARS AFTER, tells us that, according to an official report published on Jan. 3, 1935, the average wage in Moscow was 149 rubles and 30 kopecks per month. Remembering that a ruble is worth about fifteen cents and there are one hundred kopecks in a ruble this figures out to about $22.40. As to wages at the beginning of 1936, he writes as follows:

"Many women workers in Moscow textiles were getting between 100 and 120 rubles (between $15 and $18 per month) only quite recently. In the provinces, where I lived, the prevalent basis of women's wages ranged between 70 and 90 rubles. An economist got 350 rubles (and perhaps overpaid at $52.50 per month. Ed.): a bookkeeper (unlimited working day and penal responsibility for the running of the enterprise) 250 to 350 rubles; high functionaries (communists) and big specialists, from 1,000 to 5,000 rubles. The great official dramatists, the official painters who do the portraits of the important leaders over and over again, the poets and novelists approved by the Central Committee, may get a million a year and more"

Compulsory loans, dues to the party, trade union, the Red-Aid, and the like, amount to a reduction in wages of 15 to 20 per cent, which more than offsets the indirect wages, such as social insurance, free treatment in case of illness, country vacations and old-age pensions. Free medicaments, Serge says, have recently been abolished and sojourns in the better rest homes are free only to the very well-known "activists."

The ruble, he says, is worth about as much as the French franc, except for the price of brown bread, which is lower in the U. S. S. R. He gives numerous quotations of prices at the beginning of 1936, including the following: brown bread, 1 ruble or 90 kopecks a kilogram (2.2 pounds); beef, 6 to 8 rubles; pork, 9 to 12; butter, 14 to 18; herring, 6 to 10; ham, 18 to 20; tea, 60 to 100; coffee, 40 to 50; vodka, 12 rubles a litre (1.05 quarts). Manufactures are relatively dear, for example: leather-soled shoes, 80 to 150 rubles; overcoat, 100 to 500; a cotton suit, 200; a woolen suit, 600 to 1,000; dress, 70 to 100; woolen shirt, 200 rubles.

As to pre-revolutionary conditions, the author says that people of forty are unanimous in affirming that they lived better before the revolution in all three respects of food, clothing and lodgings, and that opinion is confirmed by statistics. "A worker in the textile industry who, in 1912-1914, received 300 kilograms of bread per month, a miner who received 600, today get an average of 150—the equivalent of 150 rubles." How then do they live? Serge's answer is: "Pilfering a bit, reselling something, a worker's household with the nominal wage of 200 rubles—the husband 130 and the wife, 70—and two children, can almost double its income if it knows how to go about it."

Of this book Max Eastman says: "If you want the bitter truth about Stalin's Russia—if you want to quit kidding yourself—this is the book." Oddly enough, both Eastman and Serge, being communists of the left, believe that Russia would have been more prosperous and happy if Trosky had been in control. To which the answer is: Tell that to the marines.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

Anglo-American Trade Pact Difficult.

WHAT has occurred to the Anglo-American trade agreement? Evidently there is trouble. And well there may be—for the strongest competitors in world markets today are the manufacturers of Great Britain and the United States. Yet at the same time the two nations are the best customers of each other. At present there is a stalemate in negotiations.

As far back as Dec. 4 The New Statesman and Nation, of London, remarked, "A pact evidently already exists in substance, subject to modification, it may be, in points of detail which prove particularly obnoxious to this or that vested interest." The last phrase hits the nail on the head. The negotiators seem fearful to make the tentative pact public, for fear of the "vested interests" in each land.

The British weekly goes on, "The news is welcome. Even though the pig still discreetly hidden in the diplomatic poke turns out to be a somewhat diminutive porker, it may be presumed that the contemplated agreement will represent a move, however cautious, in the direction of greater freedom of trade."

A LONG WAY YET

Yet the road up from nationalism and its evils is far longer than the descent into hell.

As the New Statesman and Nation points out, "Gratification at this decision on the part of the world's two greatest trading nations to liberalize the terms on which interchanges of each other's goods take place still must be qualified by realization of two facts.

"First, under the procedure laid down by the U. S. act of 1934, four or five months will have to elapse—giving time for the application by injured interests of ample 'heat' in the lobbies of congress—before the president can finally ratify any tariff reductions which he has in mind.

"Secondly, the nature of Prime Minister Chamberlain's commitments both to the dominions and to the interests in this country (England) on which his party's fortunes largely depend suggests that the scope of the agreement may be severely circumscribed.

"Moreover, the attendant circumstances are not so favorable as they were six months ago. Tariff reductions are always eased by rising prices and boom conditions in industry. But today (early part of December) America is in the early stages of a slump, world commodity prices are tumbling, and the industrial outlook even in Britain is dubious, despite the maintenance, so far, of prosperous activity."

BRITAIN'S DESIRES

What does Britain desire?

"If employment in this country (England) is to be maintained after the temporary stimulus of the rearmament program has passed its climax, it is vital to secure ampler export outlets for British manufacturers. Under the Hawley-Smoot tariff, four-fifths of our exports of manufactured goods are subject totariff duties, and even American commentators are constrained to admit that the rates of duty are high . . ."

AMERICA'S DESIRES

What does the United States desire?

". . . the post-depression history of American tariff bargaining suggests that, in negotiations vis-a-vis an industrialized country with a consumers' market of dimensions like those of the British, all the emphasis will be laid to secure countervailing advantages for American exports of agricultural products.

"The Ottawa agreements (trade agreements between the dominions and the mother country, favoring the dominions) hit the American wheat farmer, pig raiser, fruit grower and lumberer very hard. Since 1929 British imports of American cereals, condensed milk and fruit have fallen enormously; our bacon and ham purchases from the United States have dropped by 80 per cent, and our imports of soft wood have been halved. The trade has been diverted to Canada; and there has been a similar diversion from American to Empire sources of supply in the case of tinned salmon and fruit, and—in minor degree—tobacco.

"Can Mr. Chamberlain agree to reductions in the British tariff on American agricultural products substantial enough to enable Mr. Roosevelt to quash opposition from his own industrialists toward more lenient treatment of imports of British manufacture? The odds against an agreement on an ambitious scale are heavy . . ."

ONE VIEW

In conclusion, The New Statesman and Nation presents this view:

"If the strike of capital in the United States and the consequent economic recession had not frustrated hopes of a greater degree of scientific planning of agriculture, it might have been easier for President Roosevelt to cope with any temporary disturbances caused by Anglo-American trade agreement on bold lines involving wide-spread reciprocal revision of tariff rates. With only a slight extension of A. A. A. schemes he could have made easy adjustments possibly required. As it is, with the administration at Washington in gradual, albeit reluctant, retreat from the New Deal, optimism with regard to the score of a trade pact between the U. S. A. and the British commonwealth is hard to cherish.

"The political implications of an agreement, as a counter-blast to the anti-Comintern front, have been loudly proclaimed. The phrases may mean something; but, from the aspect of simple economic betterment via liberalized trade, it seems advisable not to expect too much."

Timely Editorial

Another Gretna Gone.

Indiana joins the procession of states bent on making it more difficult for hasty lovers to fly to the altar of ill-considered matrimony. If there is less marrying in haste, there should be less repentance at leisure.

The Hoosier supreme court affirms an order forbidding the clerk of Lake county to issue licenses to couples from out of the state. The act was passed in 1852. It has taken the court 86 years, it appears, to apply its terms.

The Indiana law, like that of other states, requires that the marriage license be obtained in the county where the prospective bride resides. When enforced it is a wholesome deterrent. Experience proves it is but a short jump from the cocktail bar to the marrying justice, and thence to the divorce court. Society recognizes that under certain circumstances divorces should be granted. It should likewise recognize the fact that the marriage ceremony should not be performed unless the contracting parties are mentally competent to take the vows and realize their significance.—Ohio State Journal.

Down the Dark Street—A Boy Running.

HE'S a liar and sneak,
A slinking coward
And a conceited boaster—
But he's also a brave,
Generous, great-hearted Hero!
He's a vicious little savage—
Greedy, lazy, furtive,
Disgusting in his habits
And filthy in his person—
Yet also a poet,
A knight in shining armor
Dreaming of gallant adventures
And delicate ecstasies.
He hates everyone (at times),
Suspects and resents everyone,
Is filled with feuds and furies
Which he plans to avenge
With abominable cruelties—
Yet, likewise, he's
Wistful and gentle,
Sensitive, proud
And lonely for Love!

WHO is this uncivilized monster ...this glandular divert...this public enemy and domestic pest?

HE'S ANY AVERAGE BOY OF SIXTEEN! Somebody's kid brother ...somebody's adored but exasperating son. MAYBE YOU, YOURSELF! Your own sixteen — or nineteen-year-old self, caught in this bewildering mystery which is life....trapped by this erratic stranger which is Yourself.

Whoever he is, here's a book about him — "DOWN THE DARK STREET," by Jessie Fenton (Houghton Mifflin Co.)—as understanding, as pitifully and tragically true a book about The Animal-boy as ever I've read. A book that should be on every mother's table, on every man's desk.

Lonny Bishop was the boy's name. He wasn't a bad boy. He was hardly a boy at all. Just a hunk of unadjusted, palpitating spirit, all dressed up in a body, with no place to go. So he went down the dark street looking for the answer. And never found it.

Not a bad boy. Just a weak boy rolled—as you've seen a piece of flotsam rolled—back and forth by great, muddy waves of emotion. A weak, aimless creature, who never knew what it was all about...who was always longing, in his weak, aimless way, to find his place in the sun—and always failing.

AND, AT ANY TIME, SOMEONE MIGHT HAVE SAVED HIM!

That's the pity and shame and horror of it all—at any time, someone might have reached out a hand and made a fairly decent, small time man out of him.

For he had the makings. Not the makings of genius or heroic leadership, perhaps...but the makings of kindly, commonplace citizenship. He had that one thing in him which has the power to lift any of us out of the gutter—he had PRIDE. From the time he was a small, sobbing tyke, unable to compete with the bigger boys ...to that last, awful moment when he managed, somehow to hold himself erect as they led him to the black chair...he had PRIDE. And if someone had believed in that pride, and given it something to clutch, he might have been saved.

No, it isn't a sob story. Nor a melodrama. There's no effort in it for great literary effects. It's simply the plain record of a poor weakling—who stopped before he started.

But there must be something mighty wrong with you, Stranger, if you can read that book through without feeling as guilty as hell.

Legacy Of Friendships.

There was no money, she had not
In all her life considered it;
She valued kindness, helpfulness,
And friendship's every single bit.

And dying, she passed on a wealth
Not to be measured yardstick length,
A fortune mighty in its worth,
More than Gibraltar in its strength.

A legacy of friendships, mine.
And I shall keep them evermore.
She left no gold or silver, no;
Far richer was her treasure store.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

THOUGHTS while strolling: Why people sometimes turn to Communism—Elsa Maxwell's coming out party for Cole Porter's broken limbs just out of a cast. Cultural note: Gene Tunney cries the correct "Brava!" when women stars triumph at first fights.

Swell coiffure: Mrs. Dodge Sloane's. Brunette Bob Benchley's mustache looks blondish. Duluth sounds like a dove's coo and Schenectady tearing a rag. Most radio commentators would profit studying the delivery of Bryan Field, of the race courses. Wide-eyed Martha Deane window snooping.

Donald Duck's squawking sounds like Rae Dooley in that baby carriage scene in the Follies. Society's grocer: Eddie Reeves. Jules Brulator with feathered head-dress would make a swell model for an Indian chief. The most publicized of the heiresses, Gloria Baker.

Democracy among the swells: Mrs. John Hay Whitney's nickname of Liz and her husband's of Jock. The astrological Myra Kingsley is almost a double for Ina Claire. Fay King, the self-effacing cartoon lady. Good ad for the hotel lobby—the well-fed looking Oscar.

Memory: The string of red peppers on the kitchen wall. Dick Berlin can fatten up and thin down quicker than anything. One of these days some genius will begin writing the dailiness of New York as Pepys did of London—and we will have a new and needed type of columnist.

Not all the handsome boys have been lassoed by the movies. The business world has its Robert Taylors. Conspicuous is Edward R. Stettinus, Jr., new head of the U. S. Steel corporation. Any producer would sign him for the Heart Interest. Thomas Watson, the industrialist, is the perfect type for the role he plays in real life—the commanding middle-aged figure in big business. Bruce Barton, if caught by the camera ten years ago, might have been cast with the reigning Garbo. John Baragwanath, mining engineer and husband of Neysa McMein, could make Adolphe Menjou sit up in one of those devil-may-care parts.

The dangers of over-exploitation were strikingly stressed in the skyrocket career of the strip tease dance, Gypsy Rose Lee. Out of burlesque beginnings she arose a headline topic discussed almost as much as any woman of her time save Wally Simpson. From the continuous burlycue, she went like a shot to a featured role in the Winter Garden and from there to the inevitable Hollywood with gigantic three-sheeting. She was daily paragraphed in the jottings from the west coast. Then somehow the publicity avalanche came to a full stop. She was asked to change her name. There were reports her contracts were not to be renewed. The clouds were gathering for that dreaded rumble of oblivion, "the thunders of silence!"

New York friends of Amon Carter and O. B. Winter do not worry about marketing for holiday turkeys. Each year they are supplied by the Texas publisher and the advertising chief. Carter sends the smoked variety — which the top trencherman rate as most expensive of cocktail hour tidbits. Winter raises his on his broad acres in Maryland. In a like manner Lee Olwell remembers friends yearly with a brace of pheasants he kills himself. And then Major Bowes, who shares the bounty of his weekly radio food harvest among friends and various hospitals. There is a special truck used only for such deliveries.

Those perky snack bars with modernistic fronts, circular counters and high short-backed chairs, French fashion, increase with the recession. I notice one on lower Lexington called "Place de la Concorde" which has the latest issues of Paris Midi and Excelsior on hand. Still another is tucked in the basement of an exclusive block on the Gold Coast. They seem to have only a cocktail hour and night trade. Indeed the wrong people dropping in are discouraged.

Foot note of an ex-hero: I used to be one of those intrepid Ajaxes who, during a storm, stood smart aleck like at the open window laughing, ha, ha, when the lightning frolicked. But a few months ago I saw a bolt cleave a giant oak a quarter of a mile away in Central Park. Since then I won't even sneak a peek at a storm.

THE PIPER'S TUNE

By JOSEPH McCORD
(Copyright 1938)

CHAPTER VIII

Caradad was grateful that Terry seemed intent upon getting his pipe to draw satisfactorily; it gave her opportunity for a needed mental adjustment regarding Gerta Greenway. The latters frank interest in Terry and his success assumed a sudden significance. Perhaps her intention to voice a warning of sorts was not so ridiculous as it seemed Yet it was ridiculous—unless she cared so deeply for Terry that she allowed her fears to get the better of her judgment. Stealing a look at Terrys thoughtful face, Caradad wondered just what lay behind his rather careless account of the attractive widow.

It as curious how the financial difficulties—or the situation at least—of these two had been revealed without any volition on her part. Mrs. Greenway, it would appear, needed a wealthy husband. Terry, a wealthy wife. If they were interested in each other, it would seem little less than a misfortune. Caradad was suddenly convinced, now, that Mrs Greenway did care. Very much. She was not so sure about Terry. His dismissal of her as a "very clever woman" had a flippant note. But that might have been intentional.

• • • •

And Caradad was too much the woman to allow the topic to escape. She was curious about Mrs. Greenway's reference to the previous evening Terry had not followed up with an explanation in his telephone conversation, or since

"It was nice of you, Terry, to have Mrs Greenway look me up so soon," she ventured, for the second time.

"What did she say about it?" was the unexpected answer.

"Why, nothing—much Except that she was talking to you last evening and you were telling . . ."

"Oh, sure After I left you I happened to bump into a friend of mine named Nick Tankersly. Pretty well named, too. He was supposed to be meeting a bunch of folks on a little party—rather in need of a pilot when I picked him up. So, I played the Boy Scout. Gerta and a few others I knew were there and I lingered awhile. I reckon she told you"

"Oh, no. She merely said you were telling some friends about—me. About our being long-lost playmates, you know." Caradad laughed. "You must have done well by me, Terry, because Mrs. Greenway said she asked for my address so that she could meet me"

"She said that, did she?" Terry was frowning at the lamp

"Why, yes. Only . . . only I supposed that it was your suggestion."

There was a sudden edge to Terry's voice "Well, it wasn't" he said curtly.

A curious feeling took possession of Caradad Her first conclusion regarding Mrs Greenway's visit had been correct, after all Gerta's call at the Rushmore had been prompted by curiosity, if there were no more important reason. Terry must have given her reason to suppose that he and Caradad were close friends. He might even have displayed some enthusiasm over finding her again after so long a time. Caradad found it difficult to repress a little glow of exultation when that thought occurred to her. But all she said was, "Oh." And waited.

"I seem to remember that Gerta asked where you were staying," Terry observed thoughtfully. "But I know darned well I didn't ask her to hunt you up I did think of it," he admitted, "but I wasn't sure how the two of you would hit it off"

"Beautifully," Caradad assured him. "She's nice."

"I reckon she offered to do the honors," Terry observed. "She knows her way around"

Caradad caught a note of studied carelessness in his voice, it gave her a feeling that he was trying to find out what Mrs Greenway had talked about It was rather queer that he should have decided to come to the hotel so promptly when Caradad told him of her visitor

"Yes," was her quick response "She offered to show me the stores or take me any place I wanted to go in her car. And she mentioned having me play bridge some afternoon—to meet a few friends If she knew what a terrible game I play, she wouldn't have suggested that"

"Oh you'll make out Those women don't take their bridge very seriously Their sessions are mainly for the purpose of taking their friends apart" Terry's grin flashed out for the first time.

Before she could make any rejoiner a blithe hail broke the silence

"Hi fella! So there you are!"

While Terry pulled himself to his feet, Caradad found herself looking up into the smiling face of a young man He was short and heavy-set His face was as round as a cherub's and as innocent; his hair was golden in the lamplight, and curly

Terry managed the introductory rites with an air of formality.

"Miss Vardell, may I present Mr. Tankersly?"

"Of course he may," that young gentleman volunteered promptly And extended a plump white hand to Caradad. "Only I'm Nick—to my old friends I can't stay long, but we might as well be comfortable" He drew up a chair and seated himself directly in front of Caradad and beamed His smile was so infectious that she returned it involuntarily "I had a time finding you," he confided happily.

"How did you?" Terry's tone was impassive.

"Sheer and unadulterated good fortune, my boy. I'm strolling down the avenue watching the sights and wondering what to do with myself Suddenly, my alert eye catches a glimpse of Terrible Terry easing himself into this inn. I hunt through all the nooks where a young man about town might be expected to lurk No good. I had gotten this far on my way to the attic . . 'nother break. Better'n I hoped I didn't expect to find Miss Oakley so soon."

"The name is Vardell," came a curt correction.

"It is not!" Mr. Tankersley declared complacently "You told us all about her last night. She's Annie Oakley's grandchild and she shoots better than Buffalo Bill's girl friend ever thought of Tell me, Annie," he insisted with childish eagerness. "where you pack your gun Shoulder holster or in your waistband?"

• • •

Caradad's musical laugh answered him drowning an impatient remark from Terry. She recalled the latter's comment about his friend's name Perhaps Mr Tankersley had been drinking But he was harmless And funny She attempted to match his air of gravity

"I'm not heeled tonight," she told him "I left my guns in my room—under the pillow"

"Hah!" Nick exclaimed, turning triumphantly to Terry. "I was right! Did you hear what she said about being 'heeled?' That's what they say in books. She's a natural. Tell you what . . . "He turned again to Caradad. "Go up and get your artillery, gal. I'll send a boy out for some glass balls Then we'll toss 'em over the rail and watch you break 'em before they hit the lobby floor."

"You're crazy—more so than usual" Terry was smiling in spite of himself. "Don't pay any attention to Nick, Dad He's a professional humorist. Just ignore him when he's having one of his spasms"

"I'm nothing of the sort," Nick declared plaintively. "Terry did tell us about you last night. Annie . . . how you were born in the saddle and cut your teeth on the butt of a six-gun Now that I've seen you, I hope you're going to tell me that there's a bunch of rustlers getting your cattle—maybe some low-down varmint trying to cop the title to the old ranch. I don't care what your troubles are, so long as you need help. What can I do?"

"Nothing, I'm afraid" Caradad smiled "You see I don't even live on a ranch any more You like Westerns, don't you?"

"Sure It's where I got all my prairie larnin'. I was hoping I could use it. Well, then, how do you like us? It seems to me I heard this was the first time you have been good to old Chi"

"It is, I think it's ever so interesting a city, the little I've seen of it."

MORE 'BREAKS' LOOMING FOR LUCKY HITLER

British Bishop's Plea For Better Understanding Boosts Hopes In England.

By DWIGHT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.)

NEW YORK—(AP)—The dice continue to fall lucky for Nazi Chieftain Hitler.

Signs multiply that England is leaning in his direction, and consequently rather away from France, as he makes his ambitious claims on the world for the Fatherland.

The latest indication comes from the venerable Archbishop of Canterbury. Being head of the Church of England, his lordship speaks as one having authority. He urged that his country seek a friendlier understanding with Hitler.

The archbishop wasn't necessarily speaking on behalf of, or with the knowledge of, the prime minister, who is the political head of the government. It would be most unwise, however, for the prelate to make a statement on a matter of such moment internationally, without first getting the approval of the premier.

Our natural assumption therefore must be that the archbishop was voicing views which coincided with those of the prime minister.

But, you protest, Hitler is rattling the sabre, waging war on the Jews and the Christian churches, demanding return of Germany's pre-war colonies, making it clear that he hopes to take over both Czechoslovokia and Austria, otherwise extend his influence in southeastern Europe, and probably make a conquest of the rich Russian Ukraine. He also is the great pal of Mussolini, who is challenging Britain's domination of the Mediterranean area.

Hinders France.

Admitting all that, the fact still remains that many Englishmen of high position believe the interests of world peace, and the special interests of the British empire, can best be served by an Anglo-German approachment of some sort. That wouldn't mean desertion of France, but it undoubtedly would mean the withdrawal of support from some of France's cherished policies, especially in eastern Europe.

If you look back to 1934 when Hitler announced the rearmament of the fatherland, you will find that while the Anglo-French rapprochment became firmer, England declined to consider a military alliance with France.

In June of the next year London and Berlin signed a naval agreement, without the previous knowledge of France, under which Germany agreed to limit her fighting ships by total tonnage to 35 per cent of Britain's. Britain promised to allow Germany to build a submarine fleet—fierce weapon with which the fatherland almost won the World war—up to full equality with England.

France was pretty mad. She claimed England should have acted in concert with other signatories of the Versailles treaty.

But some recent developments, although not so startling are very illuminating. Last November Britain moved her foreign policy towards weakening of the Rome-Belin axis through diplomatic talks in Berlin. Lord Halifax, one of the prize negotiators of Britain and a friend of Germany, was dispatched to discuss Anglo-German relations, including the colonial demands, with Hitler.

As Halifax arrived in Berlin there was inaugmated a remarkable debate in the house of lords in London. This was on a proposal to have the League of Nations conside Hitler's colonial claims. During the debate Lord Glasgow made a startling statement which was brutal in its frankness.

"It is said that Germany wants political union with Austria and a free hand in eastern Europe. What has that to do with us? Why shouldn't we allow Germany this?

Many European statesmen regard an agreement between Britain and Germany as a natural thing. Italy and Germany have little in common, and in some instances their interests clash.

A Farmer's Diary

January 20.

I TRUST there are many other folks, of earthy tastes like my own, to whom the kitchen is the best room of the house. Kitchens are basic.

"Man can live without wisdom or culture or books—
But civilized man cannot live without cooks."

Tonight, when I entered the back door after the day's work, I found the kitchen table piled with loaves of newly baked bread. The warm tops of the loaves, freshly buttered to soften them, were crisscrossed by tiny cracks as they cooled. Such a mouthwatering sight! Such a delicious, appetizing odor! And even more than that.

For there is more than mere prose to the art of breadmaking at home. There is the poetry of ripe grain waving in the wind; the whir of an old mill; the miracle of leaven, "hidden in three measures of meal, until the whole is leaven." There is the touch of a home-keeping woman's busy hands kneading the dough, fashioning it into huge rolls or puffy biscuits. There is the tantalizing, tasty brownness of the finished loaves piled on a snowy table to confront a hungry man. . . .

I did just what you would have done. I broke a generous hunk from the crusty end of one brown loaf, deliberately buttered it, and ate it with relish.

And, with all respect for the bakery companies and their truck loads of cellophane wrapped packages, I say that whoever has missed the thrill of tasting warm country bread has missed some of the best part of living.

'REAL' PROBLEM

Biggers Says New Recovery Might Be Too Rapid.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John D Biggers, unemployment census chief, told senate investigators today the "real problem" faced by this country today was in the possibility that recovery from the present business slump might be too rapid.

The trim-appearing Toledo, O., industrialist said he looked for a rather sharp resumption of business activity soon.

Testifying before the senate unemployment committee, Biggers asserted that excessive inventories, which he said contributed to the business decline, were being consumed rapidly.

"The real problem now is to be sure the rebound from this depression, if it is supplemented by artificial means, isn't too rapid," he declared, agreeing with Chairman Byrnes (D-SC) that "business might go to the other extreme."

DEFERS ACTION ON ANNEX PLANS

SHELBY—Plans for the $80,000 addition at Shelby high school were presented by Harry J. Brumenschenkel, Mansfield architect, to the Shelby board of education last night. While the board appeared pleased with the plans, it deferred definite action until later. C. G. Keck, superintendent of schools said today.

The plans call for a three story addition to be erected on the northwest corner of the building. Additional class rooms and a cafeteria will be included in the annex.

Twenty-five were in attendance for the Wednesday noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Y. M. C. A.

Two new members, Robert Sutter and Gerald B. Stahley, were received into the club by Past President F. E. Stick. This meeting was in observance of the 23rd anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis International at Detroit, Jan. 16, 1915. Mr. Stick as chairman of the Kiwanis Education committee reviewed briefly the growth and progres of Kiwanis during the 23 years of its existence.

The remainder of the program time was given to the various committee chairmen who submitted their plans for the year 1938.

The program chairman announced the first event of the year for Feb. 24, the date when the Spot Light Players of Crestline will feature a play under the sponsorship of Crestline Kiwanis, the proceeds to be used in the completion of the Kelly park tennis courts, a project which was undertaken by the club last year.

The group singing for the meeting was led by Russell B. Smith with Miss Addie Blocker at the piano. James Bennet of Columbus was a guest at the meeting.

ORDERS NIGHT SESSIONS TO END FILIBUSTER

Barkley Acts As Southern Senators Continue Fight On Lynching Bill.

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) — Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., told the senate today that night sessions will start Monday in an effort to end the filibuster against the anti-lynching bill.

"There is no way to predict how much longer this bill will require," Barkley said. "I regard it my duty to co-operate to see that legislation reported here by committees is given fair consideration.

"I do not say that in criticism of anybody.

"But committees are now beginning to report bills and if they are to be considered this bill must be concluded.

Barkley said there would be no session tomorrow but that the senate would begin sessions starting at 11 a. m. on Monday and continue without recess, until late at night.

Texan Protests.

Minority leader Charles L. McNary, R., Ore., agreed with Barkley's proposal but Sen. Tom Connally, D., Texas, bitterly assailed "efforts to cram this bill down our throats."

Several factors appeared likely to provide virtually obstacles for revision of rules which have given the senate a worldwide reputation as almost the last parliamentary body permitting unlimited debate.

First, the ability of filibusters to circumvent efforts to break up the present debate and force a vote on the bill was illustrated by the six-day speech of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D. La.

Probably more important, however, was the reluctance of many senators—both Democrats and Republicans—to permit any infringement on unlimited debate.

Sen. Robert M. La Follette, P., Wis., said the present rules had worked out in the public interest over a long period. Sens. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., William H. King, D., Utah, and Hiram W. Johnson, R., Calif., also expressed opposition to any change. Sen. George W. Norris, I., Neb., said the first consideration should be "enforcement of the present rules."

CRESTLINE STUDY CLUB HEARS REVIEWS; OTHER SOCIAL ITEMS

CRESTLINE—St. Frances de Sales Study club met Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Kate Crowe and Mrs. Henry Sosenheimer on South Thoman street.

The program of the December meeting which was postponed because of the death of a club member, was combined with that of the January meeting and consisted of a book review given by Mrs. J. F. McMahon, Spanish Christmas stories by Miss Mary O'Leary and papers read by Mrs. S. S. Weaver, Mrs. Sosenheimer and Mrs. Scanlon.

Mrs. McMahon presided for the meeting.

Miss Jane McWhirter had charge of the lesson for the Mary-Martha Women's Missionary society of the English Lutheran church Thursday afternoon at the church. Mrs. Elwood Adams had the quiz and Mrs. F. W. Keltner presided.

* * *

Mrs. Joe Brown of southeast of town was hostess to the Sandusky Township Community club Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Andy Shook, Mrs. W. D. Richardson, Mrs. Clarence Huber and Mrs. Frances Horning were guests present.

A contest and readings occupied the group.

Plans were made for a party for members and their families to be held at Riblet school on Feb. 23, and for the club's next regular meeting Feb. 17, at the home of Mrs. Walter Chambers.

Mrs. Andrew Armstrong was surprised by members of Snyder Corps, W. R. C., Tuesday evening who gathered to help celebrate her birthday anniversary, which was an events of the day.

Cards furnished the evening's diversion with prizes won by Mrs. Carl Dickerson, Mrs. Frank Clemens and Mrs. Edward Hey in euchre, pinochle and rook respectively.

In bingo games Miss Pauline Armstrong received the prize.

The corps members brought the lunch and also a gift for the honoree.

CONDUCT RITES FOR AGED MAN

NEW LONDON—Funeral services were held at the Sackett Funeral home here Friday morning for William F. Evans, 78, who died at the home of his son, Homer, after a brief illness.

The body will be taken to Delaware where rites will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Williams Street M. E. church. Burial will be in the Delaware cemetery.

Mr. Evans is survived by the son with whom he lived and one daughter, Miss Bess Evans of Cleveland.

STATE'S RELIEF BILL PUZZLES COUNTY LEADERS

Commissioners Admit Routine Required From Applicants For Aid Perplexing.

Richland county commissioners and Miss Mildred Armstrong, county relief director, said today they had "heard of" the new relief administration bill awaiting Gov. Martin L. Davey's signature, but admitted they were puzzled over the procedure which will be required under the bill, if it is signed.

If made a law, the bill would place strict administration of relief in the hands of the commissioners and drop all aliens and persons who have lived in the county less than six months from the direct relief rolls.

Figures as to the number of aliens now receiving aid in the county were not available today, but Miss Armstrong said there probably was "a considerable number of them."

Relief clients would be required by the law to reside in the state for at least two years and in the county six months to obtain relief.

Must Take Oath.

In addition, the bill would require each person on relief to make, under oath, a statement of his financial condition and attempts to obtain work and submit it to relief officials every three months.

Persons who failed to make "a reasonable effort" to obtain work or refused a job would be dropped from the lists.

The monthly publication in a newspaper of statistics concerning relief activities in the county, the number on relief and the expenditures, would also be imperative under the law.

Miss Armstrong said today that despite attempts to reduce the county relief costs to a minimum, there are about 4,500 persons receiving direct relief in Richland county. The number is the highest since March, 1936.

Relief costs last month reached $14,000, Miss Armstrong said, and are expected to go higher in January.

Although bills for last month have not been paid, county relief officials expected to receive money soon from the state under the new relief law to take care of them. Approximately $4,000 will also be available from the state relief bond retirement fund, it was learned at the county auditor's office.

tigation resulted in the resignation of Preston E Thomas as Ohio penitentiary warden.

The pace at yesterday afternoon's session was a speedier one than that of any previous day.

After hearing testimony from Chief Clerk Ben F Owen in the morning, the jury summoned Perry Swisher, Franklin township farmer and Columbus chemical company salesman, Leo M. Corbett, former assistant state purchasing agent, and C O. Bish, the former farm guard.

Swisher left the grand jury room after testifying for about a half hour, and returned later, turning over to the grand jury six cancelled checks, made out by himself, in payment for hay he apparently had purchased from the reformatory in 1927.

After Swisher had submitted the checks, Bish was recalled for a short period. Corbett's testimony was brief. Hurley announced at the conclusion of the session yesterday afternoon that Bish was still under subpoena, and would probably be questioned again next week.

Calls For Records.

After hearing these witnesses, the grand jury called for records of previous investigations of state penal institutions, including those made by Ackerman and Reams. It also called for records and documents in the possession of Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director.

Assistant Attorney General Paul Hergenroeder, who is aiding Hurley in the investigation, went to Cleveland yesterday afternoon. A case he is handling was scheduled for hearing in court there He was accompanied by John Kilbane, special investigator Both will return to Mansfield Monday when the next session of the grand jury will be held

News In Brief

Parents of Daughter—A daughter was born yesterday at the home to Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Whisler, Mifflin township.

Story Hour — Miss Carolyn Chamberlain, staff member at the Public library, will conduct the children's story hour at the library at 9:30 a. m. Saturday. She will tell stories of "Sally Gabble and the Fairy," "Tales of a Chinese Grandmother" and "Pandora and the Box."

Shoplifter Sentenced—John Regan, a transient, drew 30 days in county jail and costs on a charge of petit larceny this morning in municipal court, when he pleaded guilty to taking four women's girdles and a bundle of lead pencils from the Woolworth store. The affidavit was signed by H. L. Frick, store manager.

License Suspended—The operator's license of N. R Berry, Roselands, a truck driver was suspended for 60 days today and he was fined $30 and costs in municipal court when he was found guilty of careless and reckless driving. Corporal Scott B. Radcliffe of the state highway patrol said he made the arrest on Springmill road after Berry had crowded him off the road.

DAVEY LOSES IN SENATE AGAIN

Committee Rejects Pickens As Industrial Commission Member.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The senate Rules committee disapproved for the second time within a year late yesterday Gov. Martin L. Davey's appointee to the state industrial commission, refusing by a 5-3 vote to recommend to the senate his nomination of Ferd M. Pickens of Circleville

Earlier the committee rejected the nomination of J. Freer Bittinger of Ashland for the post left vacant when the term of Thomas M. Gregory of Cincinnati expired last July.

Opposition senators said they had no personal objection to Pickens, but felt that Gregory's work merited reappointment.

JAIL 5 IN AUTO PARTS THEFTS IN CRAWFORD

Sheriff's Officers Accuse Sulphur Springs Youths; Loot Recovered.

BUCYRUS—Five Sulphur Springs youths, whose names Sheriff A. H. French declined to disclose, are being held in custody of the sheriff awaiting arraignment in the near future before Judge C U. Ahl in Common Pleas court on a charge of stealing automobile accessories.

Sheriff French charges that the boys, ranging in age from 17 to 20, have been stealing gasoline, lights and other accessories from cars parked at the Sulphur Springs high school during basketball games.

All of the stolen articles have been recovered, French said

NAMED ON BOARD

HEAR CONCERT

1,000 At Program Presented By English Boys Here.

Nearly 1,000 persons attended a concert given by touring English Boy Choristers last night at the First Lutheran church.

Members of the chorus ranged in ages of from 11 to 15 years. The concert included nine American and English compositions by the chorus.

Appearing as soloist during the concert was 12-year-old John Sumner, who sang "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach.

Numbers sung by the chorus included, "God Be In My Head" by Davies; "Magnificate" and "Nunc Dimittis" by MacPherson; "Come Jesu Come" by West; "Ave Maria" by Arcadelt; "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" by Handel; "Looke Downe O Loide" by Byrde; "Brotherhood" by Snow, and "O Holy Night" by Praetorius.

The group left this noon by bus for Ft. Wayne, Ind., where they are scheduled to give a concert tonight.

Perfect Score In 'Kwizz Bee' Wins Contestant $10

The first Kwizz Bee, one of a series of weekly "question night" which the Ohio theater will sponsor, was held at that theater last night with Paul Old, 361 West Fifth street, winning first prize of $10 in cash, on a perfect score of 300.

Tom Cordell won second prize, $5, with a score of 220, and Lewis Esselburn, Woodville road, took $3 with a third highest score of 200. The other two participants were Gerald Shutt and William Wygant

There were 15 questions to be answered, each of the five persons drawing three questions out of a box. James Brownscombe acted as master of ceremonies.

Old answered correctly all three of his questions, which were "What was Chaucer's greatest work?" What is meant by the allusion to Dr. Jekyll and Mr Hyde?" and "Who is Harold G. Hoffman?"

Old answered correctly that Chaucer's greatest work was "Canterbury Tales," that the Dr. Jekyll and Mr Hyde allusion meant a person with a dual personality, one good and one evil, and that Harold G. Hoffman was the retiring governor of New Jersey.

The Kwizz Bee will be conducted again next Thursday night, with $18 in cash for winners. Those who wish to participate must register at the Ohio theater before Thursday. Suggested questions and answers may be submitted to the theater. For every one accepted, a ticket to the theater will be given. Frank Harpster manager, said trick questions would not be considered.

Don't Bully Constipation

Many purgatives over-stimulate your intestines. That's why you suffer from griping. Why not try a NATURAL laxative food—Kellogg's All-Bran!

If you have common constipation, All-Bran will keep you "regular" as the clock's tick. Instead of OVER-STIMULATING your intestines, it gives them two things they need. First, All-Bran supplies "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. Second, it's a good source of vitamin "B,"—the amazing vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract.

Eat crunchy, toasted All-Bran with milk or cream and fruits. In muffins it's delicious. But however you eat it, use it REGULARLY: eat two tablespoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics, too! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. At every grocer's.

Ministering to Physical Needs

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 23 is Mark 1:29-45, the Golden Text being, Mark 1:34, "And he healed many that were sick.")

IT IS NEVER far from the place of divine worship to the place of service to our fellowmen. So our lesson opens: "And straightway, when they were come out of the synagogue, they came into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. Now Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever; and straightway they tell him of her: and he came and took her by the hand, and raised her up: and the fever left her, and she ministered unto them." Are we telling the Good Physician of our sick and bringing him to them as did these early followers of our Lord? How promptly and effectively the Lord responds to such appeals of human need: "They tell him of her: and he came, and took her by the hand, and raised her up."

Authority Over Disease.

In last Sunday's lesson there was displayed Jesus' authority in the realm of doctrine: "They were astonished at his doctrine, for he taught them as one that had authority." His authority even extended to the realm of demons: "For with authority," they said, "he commandeth even the unclean spirits, and they do obey him." Again he asserts his authority, this time in the realm of disease. Luke the physician tells us that it was "a great fever" with which Simon's wife's mother "was holden," and that Jesus "stood over her and rebuked the fever, and it left her." And the word Luke used here for "rebuked" is the same word he used to describe Jesus' exercise of authority over the evil spirit. This authority of Jesus in the realm of disease was displayed on a wider scale at sunset of that busy day, when "they brought unto him all that were sick, and them that were possessed with demons. And all the city was gathered together at the door. And he healed many that were sick with divers diseases, and cast out many demons; and he suffered not the demons to speak, because they knew him."

Source of Authority.

Jesus, walking among the rows of sick and afflicted brought to his door that evening, is the picture of the Good Physician meeting perfectly a dying world's every need. That sunset marked "the end of a perfect day." How that day and every day of the Good Physician's busy life began, are told us next: "In the morning, a great while before day, he rose up and went out, and departed into a desert place, and there prayed." When his disciples found him, and gently chided him for this, as it must have seemed to them, waste of time from a busy day, saying, "All are seeking thee," he replied, "Let us go elsewhere into the next towns, that I may preach there also; for to this end came I forth." As much as to say, "I know it is to be a busy day, therefore I came forth here to pray." Prayer time is by no means wasted time, to take time to pray is to save time for work and to multiply strength for work. The authority Jesus exercised in every realm was purchased by prayer. Our lack of it is explained in the words, "Ye have not because ye ask not. Ye ask and receive not, because ye ask amiss."

BOARD ORDERS FIVE TOWNSHIP ROADS VACATED

Commissioners' Action Boosts Number Of Abandonments In Month To 22.

The board of county commissioners yesterday ordered the abandonment of three roads in Worthington township and two in Butler township following hearings at the commissioners' office in the courthouse.

Because of protests registered at the hearings, two other roads in Worthington township which the commissioners had sought to close, will be kept open for travel, at least temporarily, commissioners said.

The five roads ordered vacated boost the total which have been abandoned in the county in the past month to 22.

Butler, Worthington roads.

Roads affected by the order are: Brokaw road, half mile long; Freed road, .40 mile, and the Lemley road, one mile, all in Worthington township; the Greenwich Town Line East road, one mile, and the Kerns road, half mile, both in Butler township.

The Tucker-Hastings road and the Cole road, with an aggregate length of little more than a half mile, were not included in the abandonment order. Both are in Worthington township.

The 22 roads closed by commissioners in the past month aggregate a total of 13 miles and are located in six townships in the eastern and southern sections of the county.

Closing of the roads frees the townships of the expense of maintenance and turns the property included in the right-of-way back to the land owners in the vicinity of the roads Most of the roads are of dirt construction and have been little used for several years.

Goat Apes Mary's Lamb And Upsets School's Classes

MONTICELLO, N. Y.—(U.P.)—A goat followed Leon Jennings to school one day. Two policemen were called to drive the animal from the school grounds.

When Luke McInerny, school policeman arrived, the goat was gazing into a window, with scores of students forming a semicircle around it.

"Get along now" commanded the policeman. "Scat!"

The goat ambled down the street, chewing a newspaper. A few minutes later the goat returned and romped with the pupils. One boy offered a sheet of homework to the goat, and was chagrined when the animal ate it.

Patrolman Sam Rosenblatt was called to aid McInerny. After a half hour's effort, the policeman roped the goat and returned it to its owner, a neighbor of the Jennings family.

PASSES BILL ON INJURIOUS GOODS

House Sends Advertising Ban Measure to Senate.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The senate has received from the house a bill to make illegal the advertising of foods, drugs, medical devices, and cosmetics which are injurious to health.

The prohibition was written into a bill passed by the senate last March to prohibit "unfair and deceptive" representation of all products in the interest of consumers The house passed the bill with the food amendment, 107 to 10.

As construed by the supreme court, the present federal trade act which the pending bill would amend prohibits only advertising unfair to competitors.

DO YOU Tire Easily?

IF you tire easily, don't rest well at night and feel "dragged out," you may need a tonic to help build you up. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will stimulate your appetite and increase the flow of gastric juice, thus aiding digestion of food, and so help build you up. Mrs. W. H. King, Route 4, Upper Sandusky, Ohio, says "Sometime ago I was very weak. I felt tired all the time and didn't sleep well I took three bottles of Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as a tonic and it stimulated my appetite and I gained strength and felt real good" Buy it in liquid or tablets from your druggist today.

STUDY REVISION OF NAVY TREATY

U. S., Britain, France Seek to Build Larger Ships.

PARIS—(AP)—A high French authority has said there had been "an exchange of views" between the American, British and French governments concerning revision of the London naval treaty of 1936 so as to permit building of battleships of more than 35,000 tons.

Gratien Candace, navy budget reporter in the chamber of deputies, told of this exchange and said France is favorable to elimination of the restriction of tonnage since "it is well known that Japan is building 46,000-ton ships."

(The London treaty authorizes release of the signatories from its tonnage and armament restrictions if a non-treaty power—such as Japan—should exceed them.)

LONDON —(U.P.)— Food prices troughout Britain, especially for beef, fish and cereals, are going up and up.

Housewives, in launching a national protest against high costs for food and household materials, plan to petition for parliamentary inquiries into household budgets.

In some cases, it is said, quotas and import duties are helping to skyrocket the cost of family necessities. It is argued that wages have not increased proportionally, and those on fixed wages and pensions are particularly hard hit.

In general, the cost of living is 60 points above the pre-war level. Food is 46 points higher, most of it in the staples; and it is these prices which are still rising. The cost of living is 9 points higher than a year ago.

English Beef Soars.

Fine cuts of English beef are 19.6 per cent above last year. Irish beef is up 20.9 per cent, and the choicest Argentine beef is up 34 per cent. Scottish beef shows the smallest increase, being only 4.6 per ent above last year.

While English mutton is down 2.8 per cent, New Zealand and Argentine lamb is up 3.3 per cent.

English veal is up as much as 16.7 per cent for fine cuts, with the cheapest veal increasing 1.3 per cent.

Increases in pork prices range from 6.6 per cent for the poorer cuts to as much as 20 per cent for the best Australian, and 16.4 per cent for the choie New Zealand.

Chicken, duck and turkey increases are almost uniformly 4 to 6 per cent a pound, raising the price from 25 to about 30 cents for the better fowls. In a recent statement to the house of commons, the president of the Board of Trade announced that the import duty on turkeys was not likely to be reduced. It is this tax which is said to have raised the price of turkeys beyond reach of many poor people.

Fish Supply Reduced.

Fish prices are expected to soar because the Danish quota for the year is exhausted, which means that British fishermen are supplying the market. Unless British fleets have exceptionally good hauls soon, prices for all fish, and particularly fat fish, may reach new peaks.

During the past few months, butter, eggs, sugar, flour, milk, cheesee, rice and tea have shown varying degrees of increases.

HITS MONOPOLY

Frank Urges 'Intelligently' Administered Economic Plan.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Dr. Glenn Frank, speaking before the board of trade in his first address since he accepted the chairmanship of the Republican policy committee, warned against the evils of private monopoly and public planning which threaten to "hamstring the buoyant energies of our national enterprise."

His speech was a plea for an intelligently administered economic system based upon the belief in "free enterprise," which he maintained was the way toward solution of the nation's economic problems.

Conceding that under the system of free enterprise, private capital had committed "many serious mistakes," Frank maintained that the American people are not willing to exchange it for any of the "sleek systems" prevalent in Europe.

Old Atlas Gives Picture of County In Its Infant Days

Back in 1873, when Mansfield had a population of 8,029 and the "old" courthouse was bright and new, a Richland county atlas was prepared by Willard S. Hickox, showing ownership of farms, maps of townships, and sketches of a number of homes and business properties in Mansfield and other parts of the county.

A copy of this atlas, the property of Fred J. Scheckler, Bellville, is now at the office of the Mechanics Building & Loan company, and is attracting attention from many persons interested in the appearance of early-day Mansfield.

Population figures from other cities in Ohio, as printed in the atlas, show that at that time Marion had 2,531 inhabitants; Akron, 10,006; Canton, 8,600 and Cleveland 92,829.

Also pasted in the atlas is what has the appearance of being an authentic copy of the Ulster County Gazette under date of Jan. 4, 1800, carrying an account of the death of George Washington.

ODD QUESTIONS

Court To Decide If Bath's Part Of Salesman's Duties.

CLEVELAND—(UP)—The court of appeals has been asked to decide whether taking a bath is part of the duties of a traveling salesman and whether a downtown hotel here is a "bunkhouse" under the law.

These questions came before the court in a suit by Mrs. Laura B. Wakeman, Pontiac, Mich., against the state industrial commission.

Mrs. Wakeman contends the death of her husband, Harvey, when he fell in a bathtub Aug. 10, 1934, came within the scope of his employment. He was a traveling salesman for a garment manufacturer.

Common Pleas Judge George P. Baer ruled against Mrs. Wakeman. Her attorneys argued to the court that anything done by a traveling salesman while on the road came under the "bunkhouse law."

COWS GET SERUM

SAN GABRIEL, Cal.—(U.P.)—Science still will have to wait to see what reactions a cow may give when afflicted with rabies. Bessie, bitten by a mad dog, promised to supply this missing information, but 21 injections of Pasteur treatment deprived the scientists of what results the opportunity might have given, although it is believed to have been the first case where a cow was given the Pasteur anti-rabies treatment.

Concert Pianists Are Mr., Mrs.

Romance as well as talent is represented in the piano team of Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff (above) who will be presented in concert at High school auditorium, Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Mansfield Civic Music association. Professionally they are Luboshutz and Nemenoff, piano duo, but socially they are Mr. and Mrs. She was formerly his pupil when he conducted a masters class in Paris; now she is his instructer in tennis. Off the stage they enjoy motoring, movies and sports. Both have been on concert tours to the music centers of the world. Luboshutz having appeared in America regularly for the past 10 years. Their concert will be the second number of the Civic Music program this season.

BEGINS PROGRAM

State to Improve Streams In Five Ohio Counties.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The state conservation division soon will start an extensive long-time stream improvement program in five widely separated counties state conservation commissioner L. A. Wooddell has announced, with the program ultimately extending to all counties.

Crews of workmen will start in Franklin, Putnam, Delaware, Clark and Meigs counties under supervision of E. L. Wickliff, fish propagation expert with the division, Wooddell said.

Deflecting dams will be constructed to create still water for fish propagation with local labor to be employed where possible, he said. It is also planned to plant trees and shrubs along stream banks.

Monarch butterflies migrate like birds, flying thousands of miles from as far north as Alaska.

Convict Killed, 2 Wounded as Warden Foils Escape of 8

USE WOODEN DUMMIES TO FOOL GUARDS

Kansas Desperadoes Cut Off Power But Gunfire Subdues Them On Cell Wall.

LANSING, Kan. — (U.P.) — One convict was dead, two wounded and five in solitary confinement today after a bold attempt to slip to freedom by hiding wooden dummies in their beds and throwing the state prison into darkness to cause confusion.

Led by Cecil Thornbrugh, 25-year-old killer who was slain by a guard, the eight plotters reached the prison yard before they were subdued.

They had planned elaborately, and had assembled the wooden dummies, crudely-designed knives, a rope with an iron hook for climbing the wall. They were aided by a fog, and had two confederates in the power house to cut off the lights at their signal.

Turns on Power.

Their scheme went amiss, however, when Warden Kirk Prather ran to an auxiliary switch and restored the lights and guards began firing before they could reach the wall with their rope.

The two wounded were Clifford D. Ottinger, 21, shot in the stomach, and Carnes Addington, 20, shot in the hip. Both were sentenced for robbery.

The warden had not learned how the men got the wooden dummies into their cells.

Six of the convicts were in "C" cell house, and two, Ottinger and Addington, were at work in the power house.

The six, apparently at a given signal, broke through the wall of their cells into a partition where the plumbing pipes run.

They descended the pipe into the basement and sawed their way through the basement bars to reach the yard. At that moment, Ottinger threw the switch in the power house, padlocked it, and he and Addington fled into the yard to join the other six.

Guards Open Fire.

It was only a minute and a half later, however, that Warden Prather reached the emergency switch and restored the lights. Guards opened fire and dropped Ottinger and Addington.

Meanwhile the other six had climbed their rope to reach the roof of cell house "A," which is near the wall.

When the lights went on, the six could be seen plainly on top of the cell house. Thornbrugh fell mortally wounded in the first burst of gunfire, and the other five surrendered.

Prather said the eight were "outcasts" among the other prisoners, and none had tried to join them.

First Arrest Made Under Law For Taxicab Governors

The first arrest in Mansfield under the recently enacted city ordinance requiring governors on taxicabs, was made yesterday when Captain Tom Bell and Lieut. Bruce Friday made a test drive in a cab operated by the Arrow Taxi company, and reported that although there was a governor on the motor, the cab made a top speed of 55 miles.

When the case came before municipal court this morning, Attorney George Biddle, counsel for the taxi company, obtained a continuance until Tuesday morning, which was granted.

James Seaton, 48½ Park avenue west, manager of the company, and Jay Warner, 22 Wise avenue, driver were arrested after the police officers took it out for a test, on the order of Police Chief Meade K. Bates.

The city ordinance requires governors on all taxis, and sets a speed of 45 miles, and places responsibility on the company manager as well as the operator. Seaton was not in the cab when the test was made.

2 Firemen Hurt as Fire Damages Toledo Building.

TOLEDO— (AP) —Two firemen were hurt and police lines thrown around a large brick commercial building today as a stubborn fire feeding on salvage stocks of paper and fabric brought the structure close to collapse.

Herbert Boulduan, 31, and John Duwve, 39, firemen, were injured in falls. Damage to the building was estimated unofficially at $20,000.

Roosevelt Meets With Auto Leaders Today

Up and Down THE STREET

Probably the best way to show a man the sights of a city the size of Mansfield would be to take him for an automobile ride, but not Tommy Henrich, New York Yankee baseball star, who recently spent several days at the home of his brother, Ed, of 91 Poplar street. Tommy believes in walking to stay in condition. Not a block or two, but miles and miles. He has been doing this for exercise during the off-season since he entered baseball. It was no task at all for Henrich to see what he wanted to see of Mansfield by foot as his daily program at his home in Massillon includes a 16-mile walk to Canton and back.

Spring may not be here, but Layton Cline of Shenandoah has one sign indicating that it's not far away. Last night and again this morning he reports he heard flocks of wild geese flying over the house. They were headed north, not south, which must be a good sign, he contends, since geese are not often fooled when it comes to predicting the weather.

Seniors at Mansfield high school yesterday became "Just Kids" again as members of the January graduating class observed the school's traditional ribbon day. Girls of the class came to school wearing bright colored hair ribbons, and carrying dolls. Boys wore large bright colored neckties. In addition each student carried a lollypop.

It might have been called "Reunion in Mansfield." At any rate, members of the Ohio senate's "legal graft" investigating committee met up with another group of state investigators here last night, Assistant Attorney General George Hurley and Special Investigator John Kilbane. The senators, Tom L. Gallagher, Cleveland; A. D. Baumhart, Vermilion; John Taylor, Salem; Verner Metcalf, Marietta and J. R. Seidner, Youngstown, were on their way back to Columbus after a hearing in Cleveland yesterday, and stopped in Mansfield to dine when they met Hurley and Kilbane, conducting the parole grand jury investigation here.

IGNORES PLEA

Fasting Pastor Won't Heed Advice Of Superior.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—On the 20th day of his fast Rev. Israel Harding Noe kept a tight lipped silence today concerning the order removing him as dean of St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral, but ignored his bishop's plea to take food and drink and seek medical advice.

Visibly affected by Bishop James M. Maxon's order removing him, the gaunt clergyman went into seclusion in the deanery.

Canon James R. Sharpe, Nashville, executive secretary of the diocese, was appointed as the dean's temporary successor.

Bishop Maxon said last night he regarded the clergyman's fast, undertaken to prove that "man can, here and now, put on the fullness of the Godhead bodily," with the help of an all sufficient God, as a "vagary."

JURY TOLD OF MURDER SCENE

Officer Describes Room Where Airport Manager Killed Wife, 'Best Friend.'

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — From the lips of Police Officer Harry W. Reed, summoned back to the witness stand today to give further direct testimony for the state, a jury heard repeated what was purported to be Paul A. Wright's hysterical cry Nov. 9 when he shot to death his wife, Evelyn, and John B. Kimmel.

"My God, I'm a murderer! I've killed my wife and best friend!" Wright was quoted by Reed, one of the first officers to arrive at his Glendale home after the shooting.

Wright, 38-year-old former president of Union Air terminal in Burbank, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to the murder charges. He told District Attorney Buron Fitts he shot the two in a fit of jealousy when he saw them embracing on a piano bench. The state is demanding the death penalty.

Reed in direct testimony said he was called to the Wright home shortly after 4 a. m. Nov. 9.

"Mrs. Wright was lying on her right side with her head near the piano pedals and her body under the bench. I took her pulse, which was very slight.

"Kimmel was lying on his back. His right leg was under the piano bench and partially over her body. His left foot rested on the base end of the keyboard."

The officer said Mrs. Wright's dress was not disarranged, but Kimmel's clothing was in partial disorder.

RALPH HUGHES NAMED MONARCH OF GROTTO FOR COMING YEAR

Ralph A. Hughes was elected monarch of the Baku Grotto last night at the organization's annual meetings held at the lodge headquarters in the King building.

Other officials picked to serve with Hughes are Arthur L. Croak, chief justice; Howard Schuck, master of ceremonies; Wayne Hersh, treasurer; E. C. Flory, secretary and Frank May, venerable prophet. Hughes succeeds W. G. McCready as head of the lodge.

Plans were completed for the Grotto to send units to attend the national and state Grotto conventions to be held in Cleveland this spring.

The lodge voted to maintain its headquarters in the King building for another year.

Senators Hear $1,000,000 In CCC Funds Missing.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A senate committee heard today that the general accounting office was investigating shortages of $1,000,000 in Civilian Conservation corps funds in the southwestern part of the United States.

Chairman Adams (D-Col.) of the senate public lands committee made the information public at a hearing on the nomination of E. K. Burlew to be first assistant interior secretary.

Adams read from a prepared list of questions which he said Senator Nye (R-ND), not present at the hearing, had asked him to submit to Major General Walter L. Reed, army inspector general.

REGULATION OF CREDIT BUYING OF CARS LOOMS

Senator Predicts Limit Will Be Fixed On Installments, Deficiency Judgments.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt said today he believed his conferences with business and other groups were making satisfactory progress and were clearing the atmosphere of misunderstanding.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A noontime conference between President Roosevelt and automobile company heads was preceded today by a forecast from Senator Brown (D-Mich) that the group would agree to regulate installment selling in the motor industry.

Brown and other informed persons described leading auto manufacturers as ready to accept some proposals for eliminating practices regarded by Mr. Roosevelt as detrimental to the industry and unfair to automobile buyers.

Brown and others familiar with the preliminary negotiations said agreement might be reached between the president and the motor company heads to:

Limit credit on car sales to 18 months instead of 24.

Restrict Judgments.

Require down payments which would leave purchasers burdened with no more than a certain fixed percentage of their income—perhaps 25 to 40 per cent.

Eliminate or restrict deficiency judgments against car owners whose automobiles had been seized for non-payment.

Although installment buying and "high pressure" salesmanship were high on the list of topics, Mr. Roosevelt said he would talk with the auto men about anything they wished to bring up.

Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company; William S. Knudsen, president of the General Motors Corporation; K. T. Keller, president, and B. E. Hutchinson, vice president of the Chrysler Corp., and Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Car Co., and of the Automobile Manufacturers association were the manufacturers invited.

The heads of affiliated finance companies were asked to accompany them.

Governor Murphy of Michigan, an overnight White House guest, stressed the proposal to eliminate deficiency judgments, which he characterized as a "sharp practice."

Next week the president will see Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, who has charged that a monopoly dominates the anthracite coal industry.

DIES AT AGE 51

Jefferson H. Johnston Had Been Ill Only Short Time.

Jefferson H. Johnston, 51, of 17 Bowman street, died at his home early today following a brief illness.

Born in Cleveland, Dec. 16, 1886, Mr. Johnston was associated with the American Steel and Wire company there until 10 years ago. He had been a resident of the city two years.

Mr. Johnston is survived by two sisters, Mrs. May Ames of Marion and Mrs. Blanche Cannell of Cleveland. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and Christian Scene church.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home. Funeral services and burial will be held in Cleveland Monday afternoon.

FASCIST PLANES TURN TO TERUEL

Hundreds Killed and Injured In Bombings of Seaports.

HENDAYE, France — (AP) — The Spanish insurgent army threw its aerial strength into the battle for Teruel today, after air raids on important government seaports which in two days brought death or injury to many hundreds.

The aerial maneuvers aided insurgent troops in fresh advances, which the Spanish government admitted included occupation of El Muleton hill on Teruel's western front, 160 miles to the east of Madrid.

Ten insurgent and four government planes were shot down yesterday.

CRASH DAMAGES SHIPS

LONDON —(AP)— Lloyd's reported today the 8,235-ton Brazilian passenger steamer Bage and the 4,968-ton Norwegian motor vessel Brattdal had been damaged badly in a collision off the German port of Cuxhaven, at the mouth of the Elbe river.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Gave Much; Got Nothing.

THERE IS almost as much confusion in the political policy of this administration as in its economic policies, which, despite the solemnity of the press reports, have not been clarified in the least by the administration-staged White House visit of the 50 selected business men.

Chaperoned by the mole-like Mr. Roper and accompanied by a set of formal recommendations, all calculatingly drawn so as to humor Mr. Roosevelt and avoid use of the three words that most irritate him these days—"depression, economy and budget balance," the one result of that conference has been to stiffen the resolution of Mr. Roosevelt's more radical advisers to prevent any modification of the course they have mapped out. This they are quite sure they can do. It is even said that some of them had a covert hand in framing the business men's "demonstration," were in on the preliminary conferences and are now disposed to chuckle at the way they induced the advisory council to step in "our direction."

THE FACT is that this business men's advisory council has been in existence for more than four years. It is an administration adjunct. It has performed in this way a number of times and has had on the whole no appreciable effect whatever on administration policy. It is purely show window stuff, trotted out on occasion by Mr. Roper, usually under White House instructions, and it is fairly well studded with administration stooges. The president in the past has received their recommendations and then, pressed by his radical friends and his own inclinations, goes blithely in the other direction. There is not the least reason to believe that this conference in any way has cleared the atmosphere, nor changed the situation.

SOME OF the more independent of the original members of this council resigned a year or so ago because they felt they were being put in a somewhat boobish position. It seemed to them that their desire to co-operate and live up to the original conception of a "business men's advisory council" was being used to make it easier to swing the country in a direction it should not be taken and make it practically impossible for them to protest. At one time there was a concerted movement within the council for wholesale resignations, but the persuasive Mr. Roper and a sense of personal prudence reduced the movement to impotency and the defections that occurred were individual.

THERE WAS in the advisory's council's recommendations nothing new. These things have been urged upon the president in a much more emphatic way by various groups before, and the fact is that the president before more than once has acquiesced in and approved every one of these recommendations in conversation with his conservative advisers—gone even farther in their direction than the council urged. There is not a single item in that program which he has not indorsed personally in the past and to which his conservative counselors have not felt he was committed. This, however, has not prevented him from being in sympathetic accord with measures and policies pressed upon him by his left-wing friends which sharply conflict with the conservative proposals and nullify any movement in their direction.

IF THE council's recommendations and the president's responses at the Wednesday conference, as given out by his secretary, are analyzed, it will bee seen that the council urged upon the president only the conservative "confidence restoring" things to which he was known—or, at any rate, thought—to be favorably disposed; that it accompanied these recommendations with the most conciliatory and sympathetic expressions toward various pet legislative ideas of Mr. Roosevelt, which opened the door for him to go as far as he liked. The best example of this was the vague declaration in favor of the "protection of farm income through federal legislation" which can easily be construed as an indorsement by the advisory business council of the monstrous and incredibly complicated crop-control bill now in conference committee, and of either the contents or the effect they cannot possibly know anything at all.

* * *

IT WILL be further noted that to every one of the "confidence restoring" recommendations in which Mr. Roosevelt acquiesced and which he had previously privately espoused he did so, according to his secretary, "with reservations," which again leaves him free to do what he likes and makes them mean nothing at all. In brief, the advisory council gave a great deal and got nothing at all, which was exactly the way it was "planned." No wonder the left-wing group chuckled after it was over. It was, to a very considerable extent, a phony performance. This column started out to discuss the confusion in the political policy of the administration, but got sidetracked. That subject will be pursued another day.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Second-guessing on the James Cagney-Warner Bros. peace treaty effected the other day gives us a pretty piece of backstage drama.

On the surface, it would appear the boys merely got together and ironed out their troubles, with smiling sweetness all around. Cagney, after making two films for the "independent" Grand National company, goes back to the studio where he became a star in hard-hitting melodramas. His suit to free himself from a $4,000 a week contract was victorious nearly two years ago. The state supreme court, when both contesting parties agreed, reversed that decision.

The result takes a load off many minds. Cagney won originally, not on his contention that he was overworked, but on a slip of the studio in billing him under Pat O'Brien at one of the Warner's theaters, which was a breach of contract.

Had the case gone through to a supreme court test on its merits, many studio contracts with stars would have been endangered in the event of a Cagney victory. Had Cagney lost, on the other hand, he would have been compelled to give up pictures or return to Warners under his old contract. Acute discomfort, in either event, would have resulted, either for Cagney or for Warners and the other major studios. The outlook was sufficiently serious, apparently, to induce the Warners to make concessions, at the same time inducing the actor to change his mind. Cagney's mind, freely spoken during and after his studio fight, was against further relations with those Warners in any circumstances.

Insiders credit Bill Cagney, his brother's manager, and Harry Warner, the studio president, with prime responsibility for the peace pow-wows. Bill persuaded fiery Jimmy to talk terms, and Harry smoothed over the ruffled spirits of brother Jack Warner, and the turkey-talk ensued. The whole affair was straightened out in a three-hour conference.

This way both the studio and the star are winners. Cagney, feuding with Warners, could never have worked for a major studio, as major studios have a silent, unofficial agreement about employing each other's rebels. A star of Cagney's importance needs a "major" release—and Warner Bros. needs a star like Cagney. Several potential "Cagney substitutes" did not pan out. If report is true, Cagney will get $100,000 a picture for two pictures yearly. His old deal netted him $160,000 for four pictures.

Too many pictures a year was one of Cagney's kicks against the studio. Another was the way he was required, in films, to do ungentlemanly deeds like socking ladies, pushing in their faces, and kicking them about—deeds all unpleasant to Cagney personally. The laugh is that while Cagney was at Grand National playing gentlemanly roles, the rest of the screen went beserk and leading ladies learned to regard slaps and kicks as part of their day's work!

GEORGE DANGERFIELD DISCUSSES ENGLAND

Members of Mansfield Federation of Women Hear Noted British Lecturer Speak on World Problems, Imperialism, War Threat.

PAINTING a gloomy picture of England as a government of feeling rather than reason, George Dangerfield addressed members of the Mansfield Federation of Women at the Madison theater yesterday morning on the subject "England: 1910-1938." In an effort to clarify the position of England prior to the World war, the speaker said that England was going through the same sort of a democratic experiment as the United States is now experiencing.

"It is a very violent story of a nation taking itself apart," Dangerfield stated. In the period from 1910 to 1914 England was involved in three kinds of trouble. They were the Irish trouble, labor trouble, and woman trouble. Explaining all of these problems by means of the last one, Dangerfield discussed the various means used by women to bring about female suffrage.

The movement was led by Mrs. Pankhurst and her two daughters who were supported by thousands of women by the end of the four year period. These militant suffragists staged various raids on parliament, Buckingham palace, and the prime minister's home in an effort to gain their ends.

They led demonstrations at all public meetings, went on hunger strikes when in prison, burned houses and churches, and resorted to various mean tricks, but to no avail. The declaration of war in 1914 put a sudden end to this movement as well as to the Irish demands for home rule and the labor agitation for syndicalism.

At this point Dangerfield stated, "An expanding empire is the one primary cause of war, and no one nation or event can be wholly blamed for hostilities."

So it is that the peace of England, France and the United States is threatened by the aggressive expansion of Japan, Italy, and Germany. The British situation is particularly acute in the Far East and with reference to the present turbulent situation in Spain.

"Being both sentimental and superstitious, the English people are now being led by men who appeal to their imagination but are not qualified for their posts," the lecturer charged.

Sketching the position of Great Britain, Dangerfield said that Japan is not only threatening China and the vast English interests there, but is also headed toward some of the vital spots of the empire such as Australia and India. On the other hand the Spanish are holders of Spanish Morroco and are in a position to control the Straits of Gibraltar through which the British commercial and military vessels must pass.

Likewise Italy, with her unrecognized supremacy in Ethiopia has a finger on "the vulnerable life line of the British empire — the Suez canal."

There are three ways out of this situation which points to war, he told his audience. His first, and most impractical suggestion was 'to internationalize the colonial possessions of all countries. If English diplomats would declare their position some of the recalcitrant nations might fall in line.

For his final hope, Dangerfield offered a suggestion for a co-operative program launched by the United States and England to prove to our neighbors that we are not in a "cultural ice age." "This," he said, "is the only hope for democracy which is being threatened on every side by governments that think democracy is decadent."

Dangerfield is a young Englishman who has made a life study of the events which have created the world situation we face today. In addition to being a lecturer of note he is the author of "The Strange Death of Liberal England" and "Bengal Mutiny." He was at one time literary editor of "Vanity Fair" and has contributed to many well-known newspapers and magazines in this country.

Mrs. E. J. Gilbert, president of the Federation, introduced the speaker at the meeting. A luncheon followed at the Women's Club with Mrs. Lester Redding in charge. The next Federation meeting will be a luncheon-bridge at the Women's Club Feb. 17.

Immigrant Children Have Trouble

By VIRGINIA LEE

Many young people have the same problem to contend with that a young girl wrote me about the other day. She didn't want her letter published, and asked me to write her personally, which I did. However, I don't believe she would mind if I mentioned her trouble, as it is one, as I said before, that bothers many young folk.

The problem I mean concerns the children of immigrants. Their parents, being no longer young, do not take readily to the ways of the new country to which they have had the courage to go to make a new home. They cling to the manners and customs of their native land, and this embarrasses their children.

The younger generation wants, above all things, to be like its associates. The youngsters are dreadfully distressed if anything about them or their folk is thought queer. And so their homes and parents become sources of shame for them. They dislike to admit it, but they are ashamed of their parents and ashamed of their shame. What to do in this perplexing situation is what worries them.

The public school and certain social workers are trying to solve the problem and help them—and with success. The school teacher or social settlement worker may seek out the parents, visit the homes and show great interest in the old country customs and traditions that are carried on therein. They encourage the parents to bring out the native costumes, the songs, folk dances, etc., and show the people of the new country how interesting and colorful they are.

Groups Present Plays.

In some communities nationality groups are encouraged to present plays in native tongues and costumes. Under these circumstances the children find, to their astonishment, that they can be proud of their parents' native land. And when the attitude is changed, pride takes the place of shame, and naturally the problem is solved.

If some of my readers have this problem in their own homes, I advise you to take the "bull by the horns", as it were. Be proud of your home with its picturesque old world atmosphere and customs. Don't apologize to your pals when you take them there. Tell them that you want them to see how people from another land live, to taste the foods and notice how different are the manners. Explain the traditions to them—telling them why you do this and how different life is in the country from which you came.

Your chums will take their cue from you, you see.

"DEAR MISS LEE: I read your article regarding 'Religious Difference Is Problem', and would like to correct the impression which this article undoubtedly made in the minds of those who may have read it outside of the Catholic faith.

"When Mr. Stewart questioned his wife regarding their pledge to Father Treacy about the religion of their baby, he, to me, realized what his pledge meant, but his wife did not seem to remember that when she made that pledge (and it was only under that condition she was permitted to be married to him by a Catholic priest) that such a pledge was not made to be limited to a certain number of years, but was intended to last as long as they had children born to them. There is no such thing in the laws of the Catholic church as such a pledge being outlawed, no matter how late in a couple's life a child may be born, or how harmonious their life heretofore may have been. The pledge at the time of their marriage holds as long as they have children born to them.

"A CATHOLIC."

I am sorry if you think a wrong impression was given by the letter, and thank you for correcting it.

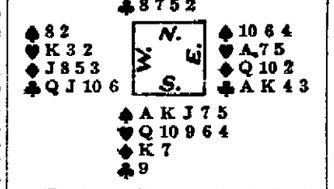
DISCONTINUING TRUMPS

TRUMPS HAVE more purposes than merely to constitute trick takers and knock off losers. They are absolutely essential, in some hands, to furnish entries for some other suit which is needed to get discards of losers opposite them. When this condition prevails, it is well to discontinue trump leads for at least one round until the side suit is set up.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Souths opening bid on this deal was 1-Spade, North called 1-No Trump, South 2-Hearts, North 2-Spades and South 4-Spades.

The club Q was Wests opening lead and when this held another club lead was made which South ruffed Three rounds of trumps were now cashed and a heart led, which West won with the king. A third club lead took South's last trump, and when he led another heart to establish the suit, East won and played another club for which South had no trump, and was consequently set one trick.

South's correct play was to have led only two rounds of trumps, after winning the second trick. A shift should then have been made to a heart. If a trump was led, he could win and clear the hearts at once, while still retaining a trump for a club ruff

If the opponents led a club instead of a trump the declarer would have been in position to ruff in his hand. He could then have given up a heart and ruffed the return club. A diamond to the A would have enabled declarer to lead the spade Q to take East's last trump.

What is South's correct play at 4-Spades after the heart K has been cashed, followed by the heart A?

Shapely Arms Can Be Had With Effort

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

BACK IN colonial days women wore slender, black velvet bands about their wrists to call attention to their lovely arms. They also wore short, flattering puffed sleeves with frilly ruffles for the same purpose. And you can take it from me, they were mighty particular in the care of their shapely arms.

Nowadays, however, women seem rather neglectful of their arms. They do not realize, apparently, that arms require attention just as well as hips, waists and legs, insofar as shapeliness is concerned. And when they begin to acquire excess weight, a good many of them find that this unwelcome adipose tissue stores itself on their upper arms.

The appearance of that sector is really mighty important just now, tricky sleeves and revealing evening gowns being what they are, and flabby, fleshy upper arms are most unattractive appendages.

Arms should be firm, slender, well formed—or else they should be kept out of sight. And what woman, I ask you, wants to force her arms to serve a life sentence in a pair of wrist-length sleeves?

Flabby, fat upper arms generally indicate a lack of muscular tone, and exercise is what is needed to smooth away the adipose tissue and to substitute firmness for flabbiness There are some excellent exercises designed for this purpose The following are practically sure fire, if practiced religiously.

Stand erect, arms at the sides, legs together. Swing the arms up and down rapidly and forcefully in a forward movement, alternating right and left.

Stand erect, arms at sides. Keeping the elbows stiff, clasp the hands overhead. Then, with the elbows still held stiffly, swing the arms downward, and clap the hands behind the back.

Stand erect, legs together, arms extended sideways Bend the elbows and bring the arms up to the shoulders. Then stretch the arms straight overhead, and return them briskly to first postion again.

Stand erect, legs together, arms extended sideways at shoulder level. Swing the arms across the body, right arm above, then back as far as they will freely go. Repeat this entire movement, swinging the arms with the left above.

Any Skin Flaws?

If your arms pass muster as far as shapeliness is concerned, inspect them for skin flaws. Arms must not only be shapely, firm and free from excess fat, but also smooth and clearskinned, you know.

If the skin of your upper arms has become rough and goosefleshy, do not allow the condition to persist. Gooseflesh is a roughened skin condition due to an accumulation of the horny cells of the epidermis. When taking your nightly bath, scrub your arms with a bland fresh brush This will remove any deadened bits of cuticle and will stimulate the circulation in the skin. After the bath, dry your arms and massage them thoroughly with a rich cream or pure olive oil. This will correct any gooseflesh condition and will make the skin soft, smooth and velvety.

A teaspoon of granulated gelatin soaked in one teaspoon of water, then melted over hot water, if added to whipped cream will keep it firm until served.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Jim frequently protests Katie's vagaries in grumbling, mac line fashion, and they "go through their exercises," as Dicky expresses it, in stereotyped conjugal battles. But once in a great while, there comes into his voice a clarion note of command, and I notice that our tempestuous Katie, who usually flouts her stolid husband with outrageous impudence, quiets down at that note and obeys him with docility.

That note was now in his voice as he told her to "forget the movie trash" and find out what I wanted, and I was not surprised to see her turn to me in respectful silence and wait for my directions

"Nobody is sick or hurt, Katie," I said, banishing laughter from my voice with an effort "But Miss Whitlock is going into the city to to stay with Miss Mary and me for a week or two, so that if I have to come home, she will not be left alone."

Katie never stays abashed for more than a half a minute, and her response to this news was prompt. "Yah' dot goot idea," she said. "Mees Mary she ought not be alone vun meenit. No telling vot dot old fader-in-law try to pull."

Prepare for Guest.

"Katie. Stow that!" Jim fairly threw the command at her, and she subsided again.

"Vot you vant for her supper?" she said, and for the next minute or two we discussed the contents of the larder and planned an appetizing "collation" as the church sociables used to advertise. Then having put on the teakettle, we prepared a tray with carafe of ice water, glass and cover, a bottle of ink for the refilling of the desk pen, a covered dish of assorted crackers, another of candies, a package of the cigarettes which I knew were the nurse's favorite when off duty, a box of safety matches and a flashlight.

"Dere!" Katie said when we had finished. "Eferyting dere but books, magazines und cards. Me, I change linen in dot little guest room yesterday und clean eet all oop. Dot vere you going put her?"

"Yes, and it is in beautiful order. I looked at it today."

"O-oh!" Katie exclaimed. "We forget flowers. Jeem, you go out qveeck mit flashlight und get sumting. Vot you vant?"

Everything Ready.

"Wait a moment, Jim," I said. "Those cosmos on the side table in the dining room were picked today, weren't they?"

"Yah!"

"Then let me have them now. I'll attend to everything in the room, and Jim can pick some more flowers for the dining room while you are fixing the supper. Get everything ready right away, and then keep everything over hot water until they come. But don't start the coffee until you hear the car coming in the driveway."

"Oh! sure ting!" Katie agreed mechanically—we have exchanged that direction and answer thousands of times during her sojourn in my kitchen, and Katie has learned long since not to resent my automatic and sub-conscious fussiness.

"One thing more," I said, as with the cosmos in my hands with Jim close behind me I started for the hall. "Be as quiet as possible. I don't want Madame Graham to waken."

"I mofe 'round shoost like leetle mouse," Katie promised, and I went on upstairs, Jim moving carefully, if something awkwardly, in my wake.

Madge Finishes Task.

When I had sent him back, I moved swiftly around the guest room, putting in the bedside rack the fresh magazines and afternoon paper I had stopped to get from the library, seeing that the book ends on the table held entertaining new books and that ash trays were in place, that a double deck of cards and a book of crossword puzzles were handy for solitaire or solution, as Miss Whitlock might choose. I filled the desk pen, saw that notepaper, memoranda pads, envelopes, stamps, pencils, letter clips and rubber bands were in order, put in their places the things that I had brought from the kitchen, and saw that the dressing table held fresh pads of cotton and the small unopened jars of a standard cosmetic that I always keep on my guest room dressers.

Last of all I arranged in small, low containers the cosmos I had brought from the dining room, and turning at the doorway for a last inspection of the room, pronounced it ready and attractive.

"Even if I do say it as shouldn't," I plagarized from Mrs. Ticer, and went downstairs just in time to greet Miss Whitlock at the veranda door.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 22.

The planetary prognostications for this day seem to have peculiar or subtle slants, which may be decidedly beneficial if shrewdly managed. This may come about through consultation with diplomats, politicians, heads of mergers or secret organizationss. Litigation and speculation, also new contracts, may help in promoting the interests and increasing funds. New matters should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year in which their fortunes and progress are increased by secret agreements or shrewd understandings with rings, combines, secret orders, diplomatic or political cirles.

A child born on this day may have native shrewdness, tact and diplomacy, and, at the same time, it may have legal mind and high ambitions. It may be fitted for a career requiring peculiar adaptabilities and subtle insight.

My Neighbor Says:

Add only enough water to the flour in making pie crust to hold the dry ingredients together in a lump so that the mixture may be rolled out in a sheet. Too much water makes the crust tough.

A teaspoon of vinegar added to home-made sirup will keep it from candying after it stands.

When making griddle cakes, melt two tablespoons of shortening and add to the batter. This eliminates all need of greasing the griddle, saves times and there is no smoke.

Eggplant stuffed with savory stuffing moistened with tomato juice makes a good vegetable dish for dinner or luncheon.

What Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Service Means to You

Wm. M. Scholl M.D., D.S.C.

More than 30 years ago Dr. Scholl began an intensive study of the feet—the causes of foot troubles, how to detect them and how to provide immediate relief. Today his fame as a noted foot authority has spread to every civilized country.

During these years of laboratory and clinical study he has produced a Dr. Scholl Foot Comfort Appliance or Remedy for every common foot trouble such as weak, broken-down arches, rheumatic-like pains in the feet and legs, tired, aching feet, corns, callouses, bunions and "Athlete's Foot".

One of his outstanding contributions to the relief of foot suffering has been the development of
